

De-escalate, Urges Nelson

Senator Departs From Keynote
Address, Raps Vietnam 'Hawks'

BY TIM WYNGAARD

LA CROSSE — Sen. Gaylord Nelson, faced with a surprisingly hawkish state Democratic Party convention here Friday night, shot back at critics of his opposition to the war in Vietnam and called for an immediate de-escalation of the southeast Asian conflict.

Departing from a prepared text of the convention's keynote address, released before the convention resolution committee recommended for adoption a reversal of last year's dove-like stance as a state party policy position, Nelson called for "a real test" to try to achieve a negotiated settlement of the war which is dividing Democrats.

"Now is the time to stop the bombing of North Vietnam," cried Nelson in his emotional aside. "Now is the time to pull away — about 10 or 15 miles — from the demilitarized zone. Now is the time to stop our search and destroy missions and sit back and let the war simmer and cool down," he said.

"No Visible Effect" — "The bombing is not having any visible effect on shortening the war and is probably stopping Ho Chi Minh from coming to the bargaining table — because he can't get there," said Nelson to repeated applause from the Doves among the audience of about 750 persons.

Before pursuing the air warfare policy, Defense Secretary Robert McNamara argued that bombing the north would have no appreciable effect on the war, Nelson recalled. Hawks calling for attacks "to bomb North Vietnam into the stone age" forget that the country is practically in that primitive condition to start, he claimed.

"The bombing is for the psychological benefit of some people who think we should be doing something" to end the war through massive use of military power, he charged.

"The time is ripe for a real test of negotiations. By cooling down the war while holding firm in our present positions we can reduce our casualty rate at the same time that we make a bona fide test of the possibility of a negotiated settlement."

"Like every step we have taken or may take in Vietnam, this course carries with it some gambles and some risks," he admitted. "But I think it is a calculated gamble well worth taking."

No Alternatives — Republicans and his Democratic critics have provided no workable alternatives, he charged.

"It's the best I've got . . . if you don't like that, what do you like — further escalation?" That alternative may lead to Chinese intervention, he told the delegates who were to be called on today to deal with the Vietnam resolution.

Nelson took the opportunity to answer critics who have charged that his anti-war stance has threatened his hold on the Senate seat in the 1968 election. When coupled with speculation about the shattered state of the Democratic Party in Wisconsin after last fall's almost total sweep of state races by Republicans, Nelson is considered by some friends to be in serious trouble for the coming race which may be run against popular Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

If the senator is worried he gave no indication to the audience.

Unlike almost all other party leaders he viewed the party's condition in a favorable light, alleging that it is "normal" for this period between elections.

Potential Downfall — He openly scoffed at national commentators who have speculated about his potential downfall, charging that they know nothing of Wisconsin political affairs.

And he turned to the flip side of the Vietnam war to warn that liberal domestic programs may be lost if all attention and efforts are centered on the military conflict.

He pointed at pet programs in the War on Poverty, conservation, and the Teacher Corps which he has offered and said they were endangered by Republicans seeking to replace the Great Society with "the puny society."

'Undercutting' Charge

LBJ TV Interests Accused in FCC

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's family television interests are accused of attempting to dominate the Austin, Tex., television market by undercutting their opposition.

A complaint making the charge has been filed with the Federal Communications Commission by Southwest Republic Corp., owner of KHIF-TV.

Southwest Republic charged that the Johnson interests, owners of KTBC-TV and a half interest in a community antenna television system, are trying "to undercut any degree of effective competition in the Austin television market."

KTBC-TV is owned by Texas Broadcasting Corp. Lady Bird Johnson owns 52.8 per cent of Texas Broadcasting and the two Johnson daughters, Lynda Bird and Luci, each own 15.4 per cent.

Texas Broadcasting also owns 50 per cent of Capital Cable Co., a community antenna system

Seminole Told They Own Florida

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Seminole Indians, losers in a bloody battle more than a century ago that ended with their eviction from their Florida homeland, have scored what could be a very profitable victory in court.

A U.S. Claims Court ruled Friday the Seminoles have established their legal ownership of almost all of Florida.

The court said the Indians must be paid for 32 million acres—a decision that could cost the U.S. government about $40 million. The court's unanimous decision still could be appealed to the Supreme Court.

When the United States got Florida from Spain in 1821, the Seminoles hunted and fished over most of the land. They were forced to occupy a four-million-acre reservation two years later and awarded $152,500 for the 28 million acres they lost.

Battled Troops — The Indians rebelled when the government later tried to move them to an Oklahoma reservation. Joined by runaway Negro slaves, they battled federal troops for seven years, killing 1,500 U.S. soldiers.

No treaty ever was signed. But 3,824 Seminoles and Negroes finally were sent to Oklahoma while other Indians fled into the Florida Everglades. An estimated 1,300 Seminoles now live there.

The government argued the Indians originally owned only a small part of Florida. But the Claims Court said actual possession need not be proved to show they had rightful title to most of Florida.

Franchised by the city of Austin.

Since December 1963, the Johnson television interests have been administered by trustees A.W. Moursund and J.W. Bullion. The trusteeship was established for the duration of Johnson's presidency.

Spurring the complaint against the Johnson's family interests was a request by Capital Cable Co. a month ago for a waiver of FCC rules requiring community antenna stations to protect local stations if the stations request it.

The rules require antenna systems to carry all programs of local stations and black out duplicate programs which the system may be relaying to local viewers from stations outside the area.

In its request, Capital said KHIF is not affiliated with network and thus gets programming from many sources. Capital said this made it technically difficult to black out the proper programs.

Earlier, Syria claimed that Israeli forces had captured the Syrian city of Koneytra, nine miles inside its border and 41 miles southwest of Damascus.

Thant told the Security Council, however, that Bull had reported from Jerusalem that he had been informed by an Israeli official that Israel forces were not in Koneytra. Bull reported the Israeli official recommended that Bull dispatch a U.N. observer group to see for themselves.

Gideon Rafael, Israeli ambassador to the United Nations, denied that Israel had attacked Damascus. He said Syria had been shelling Israeli border villages for 36 hours and if it would stop, "our defense action would cease."

Despite agreements from both capitals to a U.N. call for a cease-fire, AP dispatches from the Syrian-Israeli border reported exchanges of artillery barrages and Israeli air attacks on Syrian gun positions. Each nation accused the other of violating the agreement.

The Communist-bloc countries, meanwhile met in Moscow and vowed to go to the aid of the Arab nations if "Israel does not stop the aggression and withdraw its troops behind the 1948-49 truce lines."

The Soviet Union, which saw Arab armies equipped with $4 billion in Soviet aid fall quickly to the Israelis, was rallying its Communist brothers in demanding that Israel give up gains made in the war.

Damascus radio exhorted Syrian troops to "hit the enemy, strike them, let your fire fall on them like rain. Destroy settlements after settlement, burn their positions, shoot down their planes."

The Syrian government announced it was freeing political prisoners to aid in defense. There are scores of them in the politically unstable nation, including Gen. Amin Bafez, former strongman ousted in a coup of February 1966, and his one-time defense minister, Gen. Mohammed Omran.

On fronts other than Syria, Israeli troops showed confidence by allowing Arabs in Gaza City, Egypt, to walk the streets Friday for the first time since they captured it in fierce fighting Tuesday. Some sniper fire still was reported.

United Nations observers reported three Israeli air attacks around the Syrian capital of Damascus today and said Israeli troops were in the vicinity of the city. The reports to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said, however, there were no attacks on the capital itself, as Israel and Syria kept the Middle East war going a sixth day.

Israel announced to the U.N. Security Council that Gen. Moshe Dayan, Israel's defense minister, began meeting in Jerusalem with the chief U.N. truce observer, Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, to arrange a cease-fire with Syria. The Israeli announcement said the meeting began at 8:15 a.m. EDT.

The Soviet Union informed Israel it had decided to break diplomatic relations because of the continued fighting and warned that unless Israel halted military action, the Kremlin "will take sanctions against Israel." The Soviet stand was made in a note handed to the Israeli ambassador in Moscow.

Before Council

Thant went before the Security Council in New York with a report from Lt. Gen. R.H.W. Bunworth of Ireland, head of the Israeli-Syrian Mixed Armistice Commission in Damascus. The report said one Israeli air attack was against the area of Damascus Airport, a second south of Damascus and a third north and northeast of Damascus.

Earlier, Syria claimed that Israeli forces had captured the Syrian city of Koneytra, nine miles inside its border and 41 miles southwest of Damascus.

Thant told the Security Council, however, that Bull had reported from Jerusalem that he had been informed by an Israeli official that Israel forces were not in Koneytra. Bull reported the Israeli official recommended that Bull dispatch a U.N. observer group to see for themselves.

state. The crowd carried portraits of Nasser and urged him to reconsider, which he did. (AP Wirephoto)

Claims He Is Following People's Will

CAIRO (AP) — Gamel Abdel Nasser advised the Egyptian National Assembly today he is bowing to "the will of the people and will stay on as president of the United Arab Republic."

Nasser said he would stick to the post until Egypt "erased all traces of aggression."

Deputies jumped from their seats and roared approval as Speaker Anwar Sadat announced the news of the Arab leader's decision to a special session of the Assembly.

Sadat said Nasser was unable to make the announcement himself because huge crowds shouting for his return to power were blocking his way to the Assembly building.

"We do not accept anybody but Nasser as our leader," the speaker told the assembly, repeating a slogan that had echoed through the canyons of metropolitan Cairo all night long.

In a message read by the speaker to the 360-man Assembly, Nasser said: "The voice of the masses is an order that cannot be disobeyed. Therefore I decided to stay in my place."

"I will stay in the post where the people want me to be until the time when we will be able to erase all traces of aggression. But after that period the decision should be made in a general plebiscite."

Tens of thousands milled in the streets close to the Assembly building during the noon-time meeting.

Trucks and buses, crammed with new demonstrators inched forward through the throngs in an atmosphere of riotous confusion.

But the demonstrations appeared under control of mounted police and troops positioned at intersections and all along the main thoroughfares.

Hit Electric Plant

Pilots Bomb Hanoi Targets

SAIGON (AP) — Jet warplanes from three U.S. aircraft carriers bombed an electric plant in Hanoi today in addition to targets on the city's outskirts. One plane was lost, U.S. spokesmen said.

The planes, from the Constellation, Bon Homme Richard and Enterprise, flew through a hail of groundfire from the defense network known as the Iron Triangle. The Communist air force offered no battle although several MIGs were sighted.

"Raid leaders reported all raids were successful," a headquarters spokesman said.

Pilot Missing — One Navy F8 Crusader was shot down by the heavy Communist fire, the spokesman said. The pilot is missing.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported from Hanoi that three U.S. planes were downed.

The raids against the heartland of North Vietnam followed hard on the heels of a bloody Communist mortar attack earlier today against five U.S. and South Vietnamese installations around Pleiku. The attacks left 26 dead, including two Americans, and 121 wounded.

The bombed thermal power plant is only 1.1 miles from Hanoi's geographic center. The power plant has been raided twice before.

Aside from the mortar assaults, however, the week-long slowdown in ground fighting continued. U.S. aircraft also flew strikes against rail facilities in North Vietnam and struck widely scattered targets in South Vietnam.

No Significance — In Saigon military sources said they saw no significance in the lull in fighting. They pointed out that periods of intense combat often have been separated by periods of minor skirmishing.

The raids on the Red capital area were the first in three weeks. The last previous strike close to Hanoi was on May 22 when planes hit a military barracks six miles from the city.

There had been reports, never officially confirmed, that U.S. warplanes have been avoiding Hanoi and Haiphong in favor of supply targets elsewhere.

A U.S. military spokesman in Pleiku said the mortar and rocket attacks on the Pleiku defense perimeter, on an artillery camp and on other U.S. installations were coordinated.

The mortars were 82mm, the spokesman said. He thought the rockets were either 120 or 140mm.

Plant Explosives — The Communists penetrated defenses and planted explosive charges and grenades in the areas of the U.S. 628th Maintenance Company, where the two Americans were killed, and of the 64th Transportation Company. Three Viet Cong were killed.

Most Montagnard casualties were believed to be among the women and children of the tribesmen who were undergoing special military training at the Truong Son training center.

U.S. Air Force pilots returning from strikes over North Vietnam reported touching off a large secondary explosion and a fire at the Kep rail yard 38 miles northeast of Hanoi. Other Air Force targets were the Ba Le rail yard 50 miles northeast of Hanoi and two bridges.

Navy pilots attacked bridges and rail facilities around Thanh Hoa and Vinh in the southern sector of North Vietnam.

High-flying B52 bombers raided three scattered targets in South Vietnam. One raid hit a Communist troop concentration and headquarters area 33 miles west-southwest of Pleiku, scene of the rocket and mortar attacks.

Pope Sends Condolences

Cardinal Ritter Dies at 74

ST LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Joseph Cardinal Ritter, 74, spiritual leader of half a million Roman Catholics in the Archdiocese of St. Louis and an advocate of church unity, died peacefully today.

He became ill last Monday when he suffered what was called a mild heart attack. He suffered a second heart failure Wednesday and had been in critical condition since. Doctors said he had spent a quiet night before his death.

Messages of condolences poured in from around the world and across the country.

In Vatican City, Pope Paul VI was reported deeply grieved at word of the death of Cardinal Ritter. A Vatican spokesman said the pontiff immediately halted his affairs to pray for the American cardinal and send a cable of condolences to the archdiocese.

Cardinal Ritter was named archbishop of St. Louis in 1946 at the death of John Cardinal Glennon. Pope John XXIII named him to the College of Cardinals in 1960.

Only last week, Cardinal Ritter made a sentimental trip back to his home state, Indiana, to celebrate the 50th anniversary of his ordination. He was born in New Albany, Ind., July 20, 1892. His family operated a neighborhood bakery.

Death came 50 years and 10 days after he became a priest at St. Meinrad Seminary in southern Indiana.

In 1933, at 41, he was consecrated bishop of Indianapolis. He was named archbishop of Indianapolis when that see was raised to an archdiocese in 1944. He held that post until coming to St. Louis.

As bishop he gained acclaim for the integration of parochial schools in Indianapolis shortly after his appointment. He followed the same path upon arriving in St. Louis, again ordering integration of parochial schools.

Cardinal Ritter was an advocate of church unity. At the Second Vatican Council he supported proposals for religious liberty and the rights of individual conscience.

Although a prince of the church, Cardinal Ritter lived simply. Associates suggested that the 50th anniversary of his ordination be commemorated by a testimonial dinner in St. Louis. He vetoed this plan, saying it was a personal anniversary, not an archdiocese celebration.

Church leaders of all faiths in St. Louis mourned the cardinal's death. He was praised for his contributions to both the spiritual and material lives of Catholics and non-Catholics in the St. Louis area.

Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri said: "The death of His Eminence . . . represents a great loss to his church, his community, the state and the nation."

Aaron Moves Into Tie With Bob Goalby

Tommy Putts to Stay In Contention; Bob Stormy as Weather

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Long driving Bob Goalby, his disposition as changeable as the thunderstorms which swirled over Warwick Hills Golf Club Friday, shared the halfway lead in the $100,000 Buick Open with Tommy Aaron.

The chunky Palm Beach, Calif. pro showed flashes of his old temper Friday as he fired a 73—on over par—for a 142 total that left him in a tie with Aaron whose hot putter kept him in contention for the lead.

Goalby led the first round with a three-under-par 69 over Warwick Hills, 7,126 yards. He was intent on building that lead as he went out in a two-under-par 34 Friday.

Then disaster struck. His short game fell to pieces, and soon he was arguing with the fans and disciplining his caddy as well.

A one-hour delay caused by thunderstorms and subsequent electrical storms failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the nearly 12,000 spectators who tramped over the soggy fairways.

Goalby appeared to be in the driver's seat until he tackled the seventh hole on his incoming nine after playing the back nine first.

He pushed his second shot to the back fringe of the green, came out badly and three-putted after rebuking the crowd for not standing still.

On the eighth, he chided his caddy for not staying close enough to him. On the ninth he appeared to be headed for further trap troubles. But Lady Luck smiled on him as he dropped a backdoor, fast-rising, 12-foot putt to salvage a tie for the lead.

U. S. Defeats Poland, 91-61

Americans Take 4th Win in Five Starts; Last Game Sunday

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The United States easily defeated Poland 91-61 Friday night and stayed in contention for the championship in the amateur World Basketball Tournament helped by Uruguay's upset 58-57 victory over Yugoslavia.

Al Tucker, of Oklahoma Baptist, led the Americans with 18 points. Kendall Rhine of the Bartlesville, Okla. Oilers, and Mike Sillman, former West Point star, each got 15 points.

It was the fourth victory against one defeat for the Americans who play their last game against Brazil Sunday in the windup of the tourney.

Uruguay's surprise triumph over Yugoslavia, the defending champion which had beaten the United States 73-72 Thursday night, came on a layup by Gomez in the last two seconds of play.

The United States, Yugoslavia and Russia now are tied for the lead, each with 4-1 records. The Yugoslavs and the Russians are pitted against each other in the first game of Sunday's windup doubleheader.

4 Fox Cities Teams Qualify for NEWGA Title Flight

Sheboygan, Green Bay Duos Lead

STEVENS POINT (AP)—Sixteen twosomes, including the Green Bay combine of Vince Lombardi and Jack Koeppler, advanced Friday to the championship flight of the Northeastern Wisconsin best ball golf tournament.

The Green Bay Packers' coach and general manager and Koeppler, an insurance executive, qualified with a one-under par 71 over the par 36-36-72 Fri of Wisconsin Rapids.

The cutoff for the championship flight was 73. The flight will be cut from 16 to eight teams for Sunday's final 36 holes in the 72-hole tournament.

Overall leaders with five-under par 67s were John Skeris and Dave Forbes of Sheboygan and Wayne Vornahl and John Strutz of Green Bay.

Tied with 70s were Jeff Martin and Mike Pritzkow of West Bend and Dick Sawyer and Dick par 71 over the par 36-36-72 Fri of Wisconsin Rapids.

The cutoff for the championship flight was 73. The flight will be cut from 16 to eight teams for Sunday's final 36 holes in the 72-hole tournament.

Teams with scores ranging from 74 to 79 were routed to three separate classes.

Four Fox Cities teams qualified for the championship flight. Fox Valley's Bob Derus and Wayne Hull carded a 72. Butte Morris' Don Jabas and Don Strutz, 1966 runnerups and 3 time champions, qualified with a 73, as did BDM's Dick Spangenberg and Bill Martine and Neenah Ridgeway's Elmer Selig and Gene Sage.

Those at 73 had to play off for berths. Sage birdied the extra hole to win a spot for his partner and himself.

BDM's John Hayes and son Don carded a 74, just missing the championship flight. Last year, John teamed with son Tom to win the title.

Foxes Beat Decatur Twice But Fail to Gain on Twins

Extend 2-Year Streak to 17 Straight Over Commodores; Cooper, Kissane Hurl Wins

DECATUR, Ill. — Roy Radmaker, hailing from Bement, Ill., about 10 miles from Decatur, gave the hometown folks something to cheer about even though their team dropped a doubleheader as he collected four hits, including a homer and a pair of doubles to lead Appleton to a 5-0, 5-2 sweep here Friday.

The double victory kept the Foxes on the heels of Midwest League-leading Wisconsin Rapids, which also won a pair. The Foxes are still one-half game behind the Twins where they have been for the past week. Tonight, Appleton will wind up its current series with Decatur.

The triumph was the third straight this year over the Commodores and the 17th consecutive in the last two years.

The Foxes opened an 11-hit barrage on Decatur's Jim Moyer, who prior to the start of the contest had hurled three straight shutouts, and it was more than enough help for Durant Cooper, who yielded only three hits in picking up a shutout for his fourth win against two losses.

Joe Monty started the scoring for Appleton in the second as he doubled in Art Kusyner.

Radmaker knocked in run No. 2 in the third with his first double and scored on a single by Joe Monty.

In the fifth frame, Radmaker and Carlos May knocked Moyer out for good with back-to-back home runs.

Cooper was never in any serious trouble as he walked only one batter while striking out six.

Kusyner and Jose Ortiz contributed to Appleton's attack in the opener with a pair of hits each.

Southpaw Dennis Kissane picked up his fifth victory without a defeat in a routine performance in the nightcap.

Appleton jumped on losing hurler Joe Smith for two tallies.

Jim Ryun Runs 1:47.2 in Meet

Says He Wants To be in More Altitude Tests

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Jim Ryun, Kansas sophomore running whiz, comes back tonight to try for a mile championship after winning Friday the race in which he says he doesn't belong.

Ryun, mile world record holder, won the United States Track and Field Federation 880 in 1:47.2—his fastest of the year and the best ever run at University Stadium in Albuquerque.

"I still don't consider myself a half-mile," he said after the race in which he was boxed in the midst of 11 other runners until the final lap began.

"Somebody with a little more speed could ruin me."

The lanky Kansan set a USTFF meet record in 1:44.9 in 1966. The time, bettering the world record, was not approved internationally because the meet was not sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union. Sanction wasn't sought this year.

Altitude Tests

Ryun and steeplechasers Conrad Nightingale of Kansas State and Chris McCubbins of Oklahoma State spent of this week participating in altitude tests prior to coming to 5,100-foot Albuquerque.

"There's quite a difference between 5,000 feet and 7,500 feet," said Ryun. "I'd like to get in a little more running at that altitude (7,500 feet) before the Olympics." The 1968 Olympics are at Mexico City, which has an altitude similar to Alamosa's.

Ryun said his chest burned a little after the 880 "but I felt real good."

He kicked with just less than 140 yards and won easily.

In addition to the mile finals, the three-mile, mile relay, 440 relay, 120 high hurdles, 440, 100, triple jump, pole vault, high jump and discus will be held tonight.

Whitewater 2-Miler Second in NAIA Test

ST. JOHNS, S.D. (AP)—Tom Hoffman of Wisconsin State, Whitewater took second place Friday in the six mile run of the NAIA track meet.

The race was won by Van Nelson of St. Cloud State of Minnesota, who took the lead from Hoffman after seven laps and kept it, finishing in 28 minutes 51.9 seconds.

Orioles Tip Chance To Spoil Ermer's Managerial Debut

A's Blank Cleveland Twice; California Tops Tigers, 4-0

By HALL BOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles wasted no time teaching Cal Ermer the facts of American League life.

Ermer, the new manager of the Minnesota Twins, climbed into a uniform only 20 minutes before the game time Friday night and then watched the Twins absorb an 11-2 loss at the hands of the Orioles.

Frank Robinson slammed a three-run homer, his 17th of the year, and Boog Powell had a three-run shot as Baltimore jolted four Minnesota pitchers for 14 hits.

In other American League action, Kansas City shut out Cleveland twice, 2-0 and 6-0; Boston nipped Washington 8-7. New York pushed a run across in the 10th inning to edge Chicago 2-1 and California blanked Detroit 4-0.

Ermer was named manager of the floundering Twins Friday afternoon after President Cal Griffith dismissed Sam Mele. He flew in from Denver, where he had managed the Twins' Pacific Coast League team for the last 2½ years, and made it in time for Friday night's game.

Get 3 Unearned Runs

He had hardly found a spot for himself in the Minnesota dugout before the Orioles hopped on Dean Chance for three unearned runs in the first inning.

Robinson doubled home a run in the fifth and then put the game out of reach with his three-run homer in the sixth. Powell's three-run shot in the eighth climaxed the Orioles' assault.

Moe Drabowsky, who struck out Bob Allison with the bases loaded, choking off a Twins' threat in the fifth, worked 4 2/3 innings of scoreless relief for his fifth straight victory. Chance, 9-3, was the loser.

Chuck Dobson and Jim (Catfish) Hunter, hung the double shutout on the Indians for Kansas City.

Dobson outduelled Steve Hargan, who allowed only two hits, in the opener. Hargan had pitched six hitless innings before Ramon Webster's leadoff triple broke the spell in the seventh. Two outs later, Jim Gogger homered, accounting for both Kansas City runs.

The A's routed Sam McDowell with a six-run first inning in the nightcap and Hunter breezed with a six-hitter. The big blow for Kansas City was rookie Dave Duncan's three-run homer in his first major league appearance with this season.

Carl Yastrzemski and Joe Foy lagged two homers apiece for the Red Sox, who overcame an early 6-2 Washington lead.

John Wyatt relieved winner Jose Santiago with the tying run at third and none out in the ninth and pitched out of the jam, preserving the victory.

Reggie Smith also homered for Boston and Frank Howard connected for the Senators.

Horace Clarke singled Steve Whitaker across with the Yankees' winning run in the 10th inning against Chicago. Whitaker had singled and moved to second when pinch hitter Dick Howser was hit by a pitch.

Elston Howard homered for the Yankees in the seventh and Al Downing preserved the one.

Nats' Harrelson Sold to Athletics

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators announced Friday first baseman Ken Harrelson has been sold to the Kansas City Athletics in a straight cash deal.

No price was announced by the club.

The Senators, playing in Boston Friday night, also announced that relief pitcher Casey Cox has been recalled from Hawaii and will join the club during their series with the Red Sox, most likely Saturday.

Mele Expresses No Bitterness Over Job Loss

Griffith Says New Leadership Can Provide Spark

By LEW FERGUSON ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Calvin Griffith dumped Sam Mele as manager of his Minnesota Twins Friday and thrust on the shoulders of veteran minor league manager Cal Ermer the task of rallying the double sputtering American League club for a run at the pennant.

"I still think this team can win the pennant," Griffith said. "I'm not going to criticize Mele; he's done a great job. But I think it was time for a change, and I think new leadership can provide the spark to get us going."

Although the move caught Twins players and fans alike by surprise, Griffith said he had been considering a change since mid-season last year. And the Griffith organization had eyed Ermer as managerial timber for more than 20 years.

"Certain Things"

"At one time last year, I had certain things on my mind," Griffith said. "Then the club turned around and started winning. I think there has been an accumulation of things. There were things that should have been done that weren't done."

Mele took his ouster calmly, and expressed no bitterness. "Even though I've been fired, I have nothing but respect and admiration for Calvin," he said. "I've always been treated fairly by him."

The deposed manager said he

Rules Governing Flag Applicable to Civilians

Years of American tradition, the time the particular state and patriotism have grown into a set of definite rules governing the use and means of displaying the American flag.

Most of the regulations have been set down for or by the Armed Forces but are applicable to civilian use as well. From the Revolutionary War period came a number of the earliest national banners.

The first flag of the colonists to have any resemblance to the present Stars and Stripes was the Grand Union flag, sometimes referred to as the "Congress Colors." It consisted of 13 stripes, alternately red and white, and a miniature "Union Jack" in the upper left hand corner, a blue field bearing the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew, signifying a union with Great Britain. It was first flown in 1775.

Since that time, the crosses have been replaced with 50 stars. The stars were chosen to represent the number of states when Congress realized in 1818 that a flag bearing more than 13 stripes would be unwieldy.

Subsequently, it decided a star should be added on each July 4 immediately following the time the particular state became a union member.

Since Flag Day is Wednesday and the summer months' weather will give Fox Valley residents a greater chance to display their American flags, the most important flag rules might be reviewed.

The flag should be raised quickly and lowered slowly and with dignity.

No objects should be placed on or over the flag.

The use of a flag for decoration of a speaker's platform or other decorative purpose is not proper.

When displayed with another flag from crossed staffs, the American flag should be to its right and its staff should be in front of the other flag staff.

When flown at half-staff, the flag should first be hoisted to the peak and then lowered to the half-staff position. Lowering a flag from half-staff requires that the flag be raised to the peak, and then lowered.

Flags should be flown at half-staff only until noon on Memorial Day.

Always To Right
The U.S. flag should always be to the right or in front of other flags in a row.

The flag should never be flown with the field of stars at the lower edge except in cases of severe distress.

The flag should never be flown during inclement weather but may be flown at night if a specific patriotic intention is the reason.

The flag is properly saluted during a parade or raising or lowering ceremony by civilians by standing at attention. Men not in uniform should remove the headdress with the right hand, holding it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Men without head-dress and women should place the right hand over the heart.

Motorist Denies He Was Tippy

Raymond Akeman, 49, 615 Lincoln Ave., Kaukauna, Friday afternoon pleaded innocent to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller set trial for Dec. 11 and ordered bond of $250.

Akeman was arrested Friday morning by Outagamie County police in the city of Appleton.

For 'Protective Occupations'

MADISON — Policemen, firemen and hundreds of other local and state public employees in so-called "protective occupations" have won a strategic first round victory in their drive for a more liberal pension system.

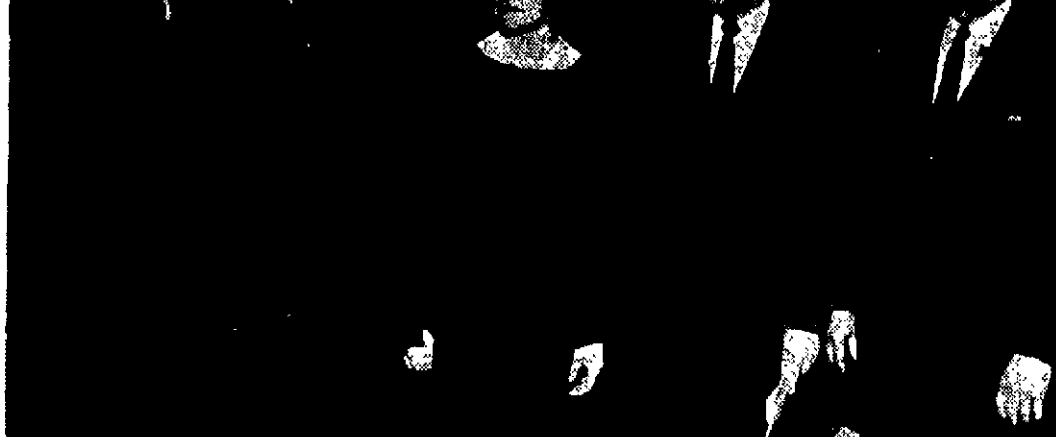

The Joint Survey Committee on Retirement Systems, relied upon by the legislature for advice about the merit of public employee retirement benefit bills, has endorsed the request of the employees for changes in their pension plans that would allow them to retire at age 55, with 25 years of service, instead of at age 60, with 30 years, as now provided by law.

Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto is chairman of the survey group which includes other legislators and state officials specializing in retirement matters.

The measure would benefit about 7,659 employees in Wisconsin. Besides increasing the current costs of supporting pensions, the legislation would involve nearly $4,000,000 in cost liability for prior service credits for the state and local governments, the review committee said.

But the survey committee noted that the change would merely put Wisconsin policy in line with that of a vast majority of other pension jurisdictions around the country. It was found that 81 per cent of the public pension plans for protective service employees now establish age 55 or less as a normal retirement age, and that more of them have established 25 years or less as the required conditions.

The report related the special stresses and responsibilities of many of the employees in the protective service which originally persuaded the legislature

Pastor Calls FVL Graduates To Dedicate Lives to God

Lives dedicated to the glory of God are of true value to the society here on earth, the 100 graduates of Fox Valley Lutheran High School were told Friday.

Bringing the spiritual message to the young people, who came from many parts of the Fox Valley, was the Rev. Lyle Koenig, pastor, Bethany Church, who spoke on the theme, "I Have Created Thee for My Glory."

"Within a few months or years you will find yourself in a contemporary, disturbed, blundering, groping society," the minister said. "You will find yourselves in a world that is filled with hate, war, crime and blood, selfishness and disrespect and death."

"Facing Death in Vietnam" "Some of you may find yourselves facing death in the battles of Vietnam. Remember in such dark and uncertain days that the Savior Who bled and died for you will be with you. Glorify Him by taking Him with you."

"Surely," the pastor continued, "this shouldn't be hard to do after all the years of instruction you have had in a Christian school."

"In a sense," Pastor Koenig said, "you too are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people; that you should show forth the praises of Him Who hath called you out of darkness into His marvelous light."

"However," he added, "make no mistake; you are not the chosen young people because you are more worthy than others. You daily sin much and come short of the glory of God as all other people. God chose you to be His children and heirs to eternal life because of His infinite grace and mercy, not because of any merit on your part."

Plans Outlined For Vietnam Valley Project

Oshkosh Director Says Door-to-Door Canvass Expected

James Siesennop, field director in central and northern Wisconsin for the Vietnam Summer Project, Thursday afternoon outlined plans for the organization in the Fox River Valley.

Siesennop, 21, of Oshkosh, is a representative of the national organization which has headquarters in Cambridge, Mass. "We're attempting to bring the Vietnam war issue to communities where it hasn't been adequately discussed," he said.

The project goal will be the organization of local units in Oshkosh, Appleton, Fond du Lac, and other cities and rural areas in Wisconsin.

"We will attempt to work on a door-to-door basis within the communities," Siesennop said. "We are attempting to establish a grass-roots movement concerning the war."

He said a full-time organizer will work in Appleton and the Valley this summer. The organizer, Siesennop said, is expected to arrive in the area in approximately two weeks.

Part-time work for the project will be done in Appleton by Lawrence University students Mark Orton and Steve Blaha.

As part of the project, Siesennop hopes to organize a group of high school students to "complement the community group."

During the door-to-door canvass, project workers will conduct surveys and circulate petitions to determine the feelings of members of the community concerning the Vietnam war. Siesennop said the Vietnam project definitely will continue after this summer.

Three File Petitions Of Bankruptcy From Fox River Valley Area

Three Fox Valley residents have filed bankruptcy petitions in U.S. District Court.

Virginia Pasternock, 433 Ahnape St., Menasha, a bartender, showed liabilities of $2,505 and assets of $254, with $1,025 exempt.

Maxine V. Gagnon, route 1, Greenleaf, a factory worker, listed liabilities of $5,743 and assets of $353, with $200 exempt.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise: I am the mother of five rugged individualists and at times it seems that only five separate menus will please them all. I recently made a startling discovery... if I fill and serve the plates, and use every means at my command to make those Heloise plates attractive, they'll eat almost anything.

When I used to set the food on the table in bowls or dishes and let each serve his own plate, they shied away at the most delicious and nutritious food.

Another angle to my new discovery is that it lends itself well to using up leftovers.

If there is one serving of green beans, three servings of peas and one of cabbage, the portions can be put on the plates of those who like them best. Same thing for that little dab of meat loaf, roast beef or chicken.

This form of feeding is especially good, by reason of activities, your family has to eat in shifts. Nobody then knows but what everybody had the same thing!

It has gotten to where we don't have enough scraps for the pets anymore!

Juanita Chapman: Here is a hint for young mothers... or older ones! I am a young one and a proud one. I use a stretch coaster (either bought or made from a sock top) on my new daughter's bottle to keep the milk warm until she finishes it.

Martha Johnston: LETTER OF LAUGHTER 2

Dear Heloise: When I told a cook the good news about slicing red onions "without tears," she promptly mentioned that for years she and her cohorts have achieved

Sheinwold It's a Sin To Bet on Bridge Hand

Opening lead — ♣ Q

South took the king of clubs, ruffed his heart in dummy, drew three rounds of trumps and then ran the diamonds.

West could ruff whenever he liked, but then South still had a trump, with ample diamonds in dummy and the ace of clubs as a sure entry.

South noticed the bad break with great satisfaction. "I bid the only makeable slam," he exclaimed. "You have to lose two clubs at six diamonds or six clubs."

"I'd still like to play the hand at six diamonds," North remonstrated.

"Here's a dollar that says you can't make it," South gloated, putting a dollar bill on the table.

Covers Bet: North put up a dollar with ominous speed. "Regardless of the opening lead," North pointed out, "declarer can draw two rounds of diamonds, ruff the heart, cash both top clubs and run four rounds of spades. On June 22 for fourth and fifth graders and June 22 for sixth through ninth graders. Play will start June 26. Registration will be at the junior high school.

South kept quiet. East must return a heart after winning the fourth spade. South ruffs, and North gets rid of the other losing club.

"I did this only to teach you not to bet," North remarked as he picked up the bet. "And also because I can use the money."

Who can quarrel with such a noble moral?

Daily Question: As dealer, you hold: S A K 4 3 H K D J 9 8 5 C K 7 5. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one club. You have 14 points in high cards and may count something for the singleton if you deduct a point or two for the singleton king.

You would still wind up with enough points for an opening bid. With 4-4 distribution in the black suits, open with one club rather than one spade. (The diamonds are not particularly biddable and may be disregarded at this stage.)

Menasha Men Staff Hospital At McCoy

H.M.S. CAMP MCCOY — About 250 members of the 44th General Hospital, including a section from Menasha, are undergoing two weeks of active duty for training which will end June 17.

The 44th General Hospital is affiliated with the University of Wisconsin Medical School.

An initial body of 76 members opened and began operating the McCoy Provisional Hospital May 27 to provide physical exams and dispensary services for reservists and national guardsmen training at Camp McCoy. They will return home today.

Colonel Henry I. Okagaki, 44th General Hospital commander, is an associate professor of orthopedic surgery at the medical school. Professional services are headed by Col. Edward R. Loftus, commander of the Menasha section and chief of medical services at Winnebago State Hospital, Winnebago.

The unit will continue operating the McCoy Provisional Hospital and two local dispensaries until the 452nd General Hospital of Milwaukee arrives June 17.

In the last week the 32 medical officers of the 44th General Hospital have given 160 physical exams and 140 X-rays to reservists and national guardsmen and X-rays to some of the 900 job corpsmen located at Camp McCoy.

Farmer's Wife: That's a dandy idea. If you run short of rags, hang a roll of paper towels near his workbench.

Heloise: For a quick freshening of ribbons without that starched look, iron them between sheets of waxed paper.

Mrs. D. Hall: We have two in college who like news from home.

As I read our hometown paper, I check with pencil the items which may interest them. After the family has read the paper, I can easily find and cut out the articles to mail with my letters.

S.N. Since my kitchen windows are an odd size, I make my own kitchen curtains and always buy enough material so that I can make potholders to match the curtains.

It's very attractive.

Billi O'Brien: Driver Cuts Head in Intersection Mishap

KAUKAUNA — James Pomeroy Jr., 17, 1704 Florence St., suffered a cut on his head, was treated by the family physician and released in a 2-car accident at Crooks Avenue and 18th Street about 10:40 a.m. Wednesday.

According to police, a car driven by Michael Coffee, 25, 406 W. Seventh St., had stopped at the intersection prior to making a left turn when his auto was struck from behind by the Pomeroy vehicle. Damage was estimated at over $200.

Your Problems Mom Laments Carelessness That Caused Only Son's Death

BY ANN LANDERS: DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter. It could save a child's life.

I am the mother of two precious little girls. My four-year-old son is gone forever because of my carelessness.

Our car is equipped with seat belts, but because my children didn't like to be strapped in, and I was too lazy to insist, I let them stand up in the rear of the car.

Four months ago I was driving the girls to school and on the way home I had to jam on the brakes to avoid hitting a dog. My little boy, who was standing up in the rear of the car, went through the windshield and was killed instantly.

Every day I see women driving with small children standing up in cars. I have to fight the impulse to stop and tell them what happened to me. You can get the word to these mothers better than anyone. Will you please do it, Ann? — Detroit Mother

Dear Mother: Here is your letter, and I can add nothing except my fervent hope that mothers everywhere will learn something from your tragic experience.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I had to laugh at the letter from the woman who complained because her husband refused to get up and give the baby his 4 a.m. bottle.

I am a service wife who wishes her husband was home right now so I could let him sleep the whole night through. The idea of getting a man up to feed a child is ridiculous. Most of us service wives are lucky if our husbands are around when our babies are born.

It makes me mad when civilian wives tell us how fortunate we are to have free medical care and a few cents off on a can of coffee at the commissary. They forget we must be father and mother to our children for as long as eight months at a stretch. I wonder how these civilian wives would do with a socket wrench. I wonder, too, if they could fix the family car, and take kids to the hospital alone, and pack up and move every few years.

I am not complaining. Being a service wife is a great life. I chose it and I'm not sorry, but I get annoyed when women who have it really good complain about meaningless trifles. Tell 'em off, Annie. — Virginia

Dear Va.: You told 'em off well enough for both of us. You can be sure your letter is going to be pointed out to thousands of wives — by their husbands, of course.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 10-years old and very sad. Our cat, Jezebel, isn't even a cat yet. She is still a kitten. Yesterday my mother had her bridge club luncheon and she made a very pretty salmon loaf. Jezebel saw the salmon loaf on the table and jumped up and ate a big chunk out of it before my mother caught her.

You would have thought somebody had committed a horrible crime the way my mother carried on. I told Mom Jezebel didn't know she was doing something wrong. Mom says she knew very well what she was doing. Please tell me, do kittens know things like that? — Owner Of A Kitten Who Can't Come Into The House

Dear Owner: Kittens don't know about bridge luncheons. They only know they like salmon. Your Mom should have kept the salmon loaf out of Jezebel's reach.

If you have trouble getting along with your parents... if you can't get them to let you live your own life, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1967)

Michiels Brothers to Run Appleton Beer-Liquor Spot

Sherwood Men Licensed Despite Disapproval of Chief of Police

Operators of a Sherwood entertainment-recreation spot, with three violations in 1966 for serving beer to minors, were granted a beer and liquor license Wednesday night by the Appleton City Council.

In approving the application of Gerald A. and Walter F. Michiels, to operate The Embers at 730 W. College Ave., the council questioned circumstances under which the welfare-ordinance committee recommended the license.

After a favorable vote was made on the license, handled as a routine matter in the committee report, Ald. Roy Pointer (14th) moved for reconsideration and asked for an explanation.

Chief Disapproves
Police Chief Earl O. Wolff, had not recommended approval of the Michiels' license. Wolff felt the Michiels should operate at Sherwood for a year without a violation before being granted a license here.

At the June 1 meeting of the welfare-ordinance committee, headed by Ald. Richard Huisman (1st), members were reluctant to recommend approval. Robert Vandehey, owner of The Embers, indicated he would rather have the application withdrawn than have the committee reject it but thought the Michiels should be given a chance to operate in Appleton.

No action was taken then by the committee after it was suggested by Huisman that a later conference be held with the applicants.

Have Conference
The conference, in the form of a special committee meeting, took place just before the council meeting. Huisman explained to the council the Michiels were told they would be expected to abide by Appleton's ordinances and state laws. There was also the question of how approval of the Michiels' application was included in the printed report before the council, and mailed to aldermen last Saturday, when the committee first took its action Wednesday night — too late normally to have it included in the written report.

"It was the committee's mistake, not the clerk's office," Huisman said. Alds. Walter Kalata (2nd), William Wachendonk (4th) and William Errington (15th) are other committee members.

Approve Dancing
Huisman explained that at the June 1 meeting the committee approved a dance license for Gerald A. Michiels for The Embers. However, Huisman said the beer-liquor application got mixed in with those on the "approval list" by mistake.

The license approved here is for fiscal 1966-67 ending June 30 and cost $275. The Michiels have an application pending for a 1967-68 license.

They assumed operation of the local place Thursday.

Jury Trial Ruling

Cigarette Flipper Splits Negligence in Accident

A former Appleton man who allegedly "flipped" a cigarette into the convertible that was behind the car in which he was a passenger, was found 50 per cent negligent in causing an accident involving the two vehicles on Oct. 21, 1961.

Outagamie County Judge Raymond P. Dohr found that Dennis Nelson, who now lives in Chicago, shared negligence with Linda Spooner, also formerly of Appleton and now living in San Francisco, Calif. A 12-member jury found that Miss Spooner was 50 per cent negligent in causing the accident which resulted in back and neck injuries to Sharon R. Templin, 22, 1137 W. Taylor St.

Award Damages
The jury found that Miss Templin, a college student, was entitled to $5,000 for personal injuries and $3,500 for future medical expenses. The court ruled that the Appleton woman was entitled to $116 for past medical expenses and her father, Robert Templin, was entitled to $117.50 for damages to his car, which his daughter was driving at the time of the accident.

Miss Templin and her father had brought the damage suit against Linda Spooner, Integrity Mutual Insurance Co., and Dennis Nelson.

According to the complaint, the convertible driven by Miss Spooner ran into the rear of the Templin car about 4 p.m. Oct. 21, 1961 on E. South River Street. The Templin car was stopped in the line of traffic.

Flips Cigarette
The contention was that Nelson, who was seated in the rear seat of the Templin station wagon, flipped a lighted cigarette through the open rear window of the vehicle and into the rear seat of the Spooner convertible, on which the top was down.

The cigarette allegedly caused a distraction, thus was a contributing factor in the accident. Jurors who heard the case Monday and Tuesday included Harry J. DeBruin, 1105 E. Melrose Ave.; Mrs. Lawrence Stark, 1707 S. Bouten St.; Peter Jochman, 420 W. Lindbergh St.; and Daniel J. Garvey, 805 S. State St., all of Appleton; Edwin Theisen, 301 W. 11th St., Kaukauna; Lorna Kamke, Freedom; Arthur Lasch, 1515 Algoma St., New London; Frank Diemer, route 2, Shiocton; Clarence Bastian, route 1, Kaukauna; Peter Van Zeeland, 317 E. North St., Little Chute; Ben Verhagen, route 2, Kaukauna and Mrs. Ray Hackl, route 2, Seymour.

Girl Injures Foot When Car Strikes Colt at Waupaca

WAUPACA — A 16-year-old Amherst Junction driver suffered a cut on her right foot, at 9 p.m. Friday, when the car she was driving struck and killed a 400 pound pony colt that ran onto County Trunk Q, five miles northwest of here.

Peggy L. Packer, was taken to the Waupaca Riverside Hospital by county police where it required four stitches to close the wound on her foot.

Miss Packer was traveling north on County Trunk Q when the colt, owned by William M. Christensen, route 4, Waupaca, ran across the road. The body of the horse flew up onto the hood of the car and shattered the windshield. An estimated $250 damage was caused to the car.

The passengers riding with Miss Packer escaped injury.

Need $500 for Truck

Appleton Firemen Ask Assistance To Provide Equipment for Rawhide

Appleton Fire Fighters Local No. 257 is seeking public help in supplying Rawhide, Inc., with a fire truck and fire equipment.

The truck, a 1940 model with a front-mounted pump and a 500-gallon water tank, was brought to Appleton from West Bend Wednesday and is being stored here until at least $500 is raised to purchase it, according to Ronald Scheid, vice president of the firefighters local.

Scheid said that the truck, formerly used by the Barton Fire Department, is in good mechanical condition. The unit is owned by a sales representative of the Peter Pirsch Co., manufacturer of fire fighting equipment. The salesman reportedly took the truck in trade on a new unit.

Must Equip
Although the price tag on the truck is $500, Scheid said more money will be needed to equip it. He said if the fund drive brings in more money than needed, the excess probably will be used to sponsor a boy at Rawhide.

Equipment will include hose, extinguishers, tools, coats, helmets, and boots, much of which will be purchased second-hand.

Firemen already have undertaken minor painting and repair jobs on the truck which will be driven in the Flag Day Parade in Appleton Saturday.

Fire Department mechanics will check over the truck and pumps before it is turned over to Rawhide, probably in about three weeks. Appleton firemen also plan to advise Rawhide officials and campers in the use of the equipment, and tentative plans call for off-duty firemen to help conduct fire-fighting classes for the boys later this year.

Scheid said plans call for a raffle and a dance soon to raise money. Other public events will be scheduled if the need arises, he explained. Donations may be sent to "Rawhide Fire Truck," 700 N. Drew St.

John Gillespie, Rawhide director, said the new unit would serve a two-fold purpose at the camp. It will be important as a way of protecting the buildings and grounds on the Wolf River near New London.

The only fire protection now afforded by the New London Fire Department, 11 miles away.

The truck, and related equipment, also will play an important role in the camp's "comprehensive fire-training program," Gillespie said.

Plans had been made to give Rawhide the 1928 Seagrave fire truck that now will be traded in on the new, large pumper that will be delivered to the Appleton Fire Department next week. Fire Department officials decided the old truck would not be practical for use at Rawhide, because replacement parts are nearly impossible to find.

7 Clergy Appointments Involve Area Parishes

Seven appointments involving area churches are among a series of clergy appointments announced today by the Most Rev. Stanislaus Bona, bishop of the Green Bay Diocese.

The Rev. Joseph Labno, pastor, St. John, Seymour, has been appointed pastor of St. Benedict, Suamico, with a mission at St. Pius, Little Suamico.

Replacing him at St. John will be the Rev. Richard Shafer, pastor at St. Mary, Glenmore, and a mission at St. Mary, Stark.

Postal Service Revamp Starts

Official Says Modernization Most Far-Reaching in History

"The most far-reaching modernization program ever undertaken by the postal system is now underway," Anthony F. Ingrassia, employe management cooperation officer of the Post Office Department's bureau of personnel said Thursday night.

Ingrassia was the banquet speaker at the final session of the Wisconsin chapter of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States (NAPUS) convention at the Conway Hotel.

"The department's 1968 budget calls for heavily increased expenditures in research and engineering and for mechanization," he said.

Ingrassia, a former Milwaukee journalist, discussed Postmaster General Lawrence O'Brien's proposal for massive reorganization of the postal system.

The plans urge that the postal service should cease to be a part of the President's Cabinet and become a non-profit corporation operated by a board of directors and managed by professional executives.

"These are far-reaching and provocative proposals," Ingrassia said. "They are designed for maximizing the national profit... the vital social, economic and educational aspects of the postal service... through better public administration."

He told the state's postmasters, "We can sit in an 'ivory tower' in Washington and come up with all sorts of ideas and techniques for improving mail service, but none can succeed without the dedication, knowledge, hard work and patience that you, as postmasters, bring to the job."

Change Necessary
He said O'Brien's is "a very serious proposal for a very serious situation," but said "we still have an urgent mission to move the mails with tools and organization we have at hand."

Unless modern postal officials change with new policies, Ingrassia said, "They may drown in their own complacency."

When completed in November 1968, electronic nerve centers in 75 of the nation's largest post offices automatically will eliminate more than eight million time cards and 25 million forms used to gather information on mail volume, workload and manpower fluctuations.

"Within the past two years," Ingrassia said, "Mr. O'Brien, with the full approval of President Johnson, has launched a massive acceleration of our modernization and mechanization program."

Approximately 400 registrants attended the three-day convention in Appleton.

Towns Protest Annexation By Appleton

278 Acres Sought From Grand Chute, Menasha, Harrison

The City of Appleton took another legal step Wednesday night to annex parcels containing an estimated 278 acres in the Towns of Grand Chute, Harrison and Menasha.

Aldermen acted in the face of written protest and the threat of litigation by representatives of the Towns of Grand Chute and Menasha by formally accepting annexation petitions.

City Atty. David Geenen, various committees and the board of public works, had recommended the city accept the annexation petitions filed recently.

There will be two separate annexations — one involving mostly City of Appleton-owned property in Grand Chute, and the other comprising large tracts in Harrison and a strip in the Town of Menasha.

There is now an automatic 60-day waiting period during which legal action can be taken by objectors. The annexations are voluntary with the city as the petition circulator.

Although the annexations fit into the city's future plans, the current action does not represent specific implementation of a recent long-range program recommended by a St. Louis consulting firm.

The council will make a decision soon as to when that plan should be put into action.

Most of the 278 acres are undeveloped at this time. Included in the package is a multimillion dollar power substation in the Town of Harrison.

Delays Rezoning
The council also: —Delayed final action on rezoning old Outagamie County airport property from residential to industrial, pending a meeting of city and county officials June 13.

—Approved the articles of agreement which would create and make Appleton a member of the Fox Valley Council of Governments. Mrs. Douglas Johnson of the League of Women Voters urged approval.

—Authorized the park board to have a park-recreation study made by a professional firm to plan for present and future needs of the city, and to apply for a federal assistance grant.

—Voted to petition the Wisconsin Public Service Commission to investigate opening the crosswalk at the North Western Railway Co. crossing on Char-lotte Street.

—Authorized the board of public works to negotiate the sale of property in the city's industrial park to a firm interested in building there.

—Okayed putting up new-type street signs on College Avenue, Lawrence Street and Washington Street from Drew Street to Memorial Drive.

The oldest wedding dress, modeled by Debbie Schroeder, was of silk faille. It also came from the longest distance, as it was Vietnam, told the group about a woman for the wedding of Dr. Mrs. James Reeve in Vermont. All of the information was not baby supplies.

Buchanan Named Vocational Area Caucus Chairman

Appleton Board President Will Lead Organization of 25 Districts

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — MENASHA — Charles Buchanan, president of the Appleton school board, has been named by the state vocational board director to conduct the meeting which will select the area board for Area Vocational and Technical District 12. The presidents of the 25 school district boards which make up District 12 will be called together next week in a meeting to be conducted by Buchanan and asked to select the area board of District 12. Tentatively the date has been set for June 14 but it was unofficially reported this morning that the date would probably be June 15 and the place Einstein Junior High School, Appleton.

All board presidents will receive a letter of instruction from Clarence L. Greiber, state vocational director by Monday. In timetables made earlier this week during the visit of Eugene Lehmann, assistant state vocational director, with vocational board presidents and directors of the six existing schools in District 12, action needed before June 26 was spelled out.

If District 12's area board is to be ready for business by July 1, 1967, as the state board has declared, the six vocational school boards should arrange for transmission of its properties, assets, claims, contracts, obligations, rights, duties and liabilities of any nature before July 1, when they will no longer exist.

The state vocational board also is asking that the area board members of two employers, two employees and two members at large be named and submitted to the state board on or before June 26.

This necessitates, under the law as it now exists, that the 25 school board presidents within district 12 select the six man board before that date.

Buchanan's task may be complicated by one factor at this point and that is the fate of Bill 19-A which today is in the Senate education committee. If 19-A should be passed by the Senate, signed by Gov. Warren Knowles and published as a law before June 26, the procedure for forming the area board will take a new form.

The kernel of 19-A, as it is now written, would change the selection committee for the area board, from the 25 school board presidents to four of these 25 school board presidents and the four county chairmen. District 12 includes Calumet, Outagamie, Waupaca and Winnebago counties.

If this should happen, the 25 school district presidents at next week's meeting could be asked by Buchanan to do two things, name the six man area board under the law as it now exists and caucus among themselves to name four from the group to serve on the selection committee 9-A could dictate.

154 Form Last AVS Class

Educator Tells Graduates About 'The Dignity of Work'

"Of all the groups graduating, you are probably the only one which really knows where you are going," 154 graduates of the trades and industry department of the Appleton Vocational School (AVS) were told at commencement Friday.

Speaking on "The Dignity of Work" was Dr. Frances Kline, Oshkosh, an educator who was instrumental in organizing the Fox Valley Resource Development Center.

This was the final graduating class of the 50-year-old school. Four counties of the Fox Valley area will be organized July 1 into Vocational District No. 12.

"You are a goal-centered group; a group with a motivation which has developed the skills which we need so very much today," Dr. Kline said.

Healthy Attitudes Present

Along with the motivation must have come healthy attitudes toward work, teamwork and cooperation, else the graduates would not have made the effort to improve themselves, she added.

"Wisconsin is considered a great state, important in the field of manufacturing. But if you look around, we are not rich in the natural resources which build industries. The answer to our importance must lie with the skilled workers like yourself, who form the backbone of the state," the speaker said.

Looking toward the future, the speaker challenged the graduates to constantly keep their skills flexible so there need be no fear for the future.

"Develop recreational, spiritual and social obligations which will make you a worthy part of the community," she charged.

"As a member of a community, you have obligations to many people — yourself, your family, church and other institutions. Don't wait to improve the community around you."

"This includes all levels of community — your city, state, country and even the world," Dr. Kline said, adding, "This is a service-oriented generation and you are a part of it."

The graduates received two-year associate of arts degrees, two-year diplomas, one-year diplomas and one-semester certificates.

Milton Ness, AVS director, brought the words of welcome. Robert T. Hansen, a member of the board, presented the diplomas, while Joe Gunderson, coordinator of business education, presented the graduating class and the Rev. Ellis Waggoner, associate pastor, Trinity Lutheran Church, had the invocation.

Appleton to Ask Board For $100,000

Funds Would Cover Part of Avenue Construction Cost

An official request has been made to the Outagamie County Board for $100,000 to help cover the cost of reconstructing College Avenue in downtown Appleton.

It was made in the form of a resolution by the Appleton City Council Wednesday night and will be before the county board when it meets next week.

Previous meetings between city and county officials reportedly have resulted in a commitment.

College Avenue is on the federal aid secondary system (FAS) for which the county receives monies for maintenance and improvements.

The first indication the county would assist with financing the near $1 million avenue reconstruction project came last fall in meetings between city officials and the Outagamie County Highway Committee and members of the county board executive committee.

Originally, the city made a mild complaint that Appleton was not on the receiving end of a fair share of the FAS funds, compared to money for highway improvements being spent out in the county.

At the conclusion of city-county talks, including a session less than two weeks ago, there was a consensus that Appleton be recommended for the $100,000 appropriation.

Actual cost of the avenue street construction is $800,000, including sewers.

Schwartz to Regain County Board Seat

Ousted Supervisor Moves Back To District Which Elected Him

SYLVESTER Esler, Outagamie County Board chairman, said Thursday afternoon that he intends to re-appoint recently ousted Ralph Schwartz to his county board seat.

Esler said he would take the action when Walter Bogan, whom he named last month to replace Schwartz, officially withdraws his name from consideration.

Bogan, former Appleton building inspector, had indicated Thursday that he did not want the county board job. He gave no detailed reasons for changing his mind on accepting the supervisory post. He had told Esler last month that he would take the post.

Bogan said he would make his decision official today with a letter to County Clerk Mollie E. Pfeffer. However, he had not submitted the letter as of noon today.

Esler, acting in part on a legal opinion by A. W. Ponath, county corporation counsel, removed Schwartz from his post after the young Appleton supervisor, elected last year, moved out of his district. Schwartz had hired an attorney and was prepared to fight Ponath's ruling.

However, Esler said that Schwartz now has moved back into his west-side district and is again eligible to hold his board seat. His re-appointment will have to be approved by the board Tuesday.

Had Bogan not withdrawn from contention, there undoubtedly would have been a board battle Tuesday for the 21st district seat. Schwartz had been allowed to hold his seat in committee meetings, and his dismissal had not yet been recognized by the county board, nor had Bogan's appointment.

Fifth grade through high school age students can participate in the program during the morning hours and from 2 to 4 p.m. Their activities will include Babe Ruth and Little League baseball, coached by Jim Ross, and bike races, track meets, horseshoes, tennis, ping-pong, golf, wrestling and dart games. Youngsters of all ages are eligible to attend the four movies to be shown Wednesday afternoons at 2 p.m. at the Horn Park pavilion. Walt Disney's "Moon Pilot" will be shown Wednesday.

Play Basketball

Young men of high school age and up can participate in the Thursday night basketball league. Teams will be formed at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the high school. Ross will be in charge.

Earl Herring will assist. Ray Artz will supervise the lime kiln swimming pool which will open Saturday, weather permitting. Life guards will be on duty from 1 to 5 p.m. and 8 to 8:30 p.m. daily. They are Ross, Dick Klein and Carolyn Ambrosius. Joanne Ross and Linda Hauser will work at the ticket gate.

Morning swimming lessons can be arranged by contacting either Artz, the director, or Ross, who is assistant director.

Found Amid Debris

Tiny Finds New Home, Warm Bed

BY ALICE CONNORS
Post-Crescent Correspondent

CHILTON — Tiny has a new home. And eight little children are happily taking turns walking him with his shiny new leash and leather collar.

Tiny has been the object of much concern the past two weeks. He is a toy terrier who was left behind by a family who moved to another community. He had been keeping his faithful vigil on a window ledge inside the dilapidated home on E. Grand Street waiting for a familiar face, but no one had come for him.

Children in the neighborhood began to miss Tiny at the window Wednesday, and the neighbors noticed the food they left had been untouched. Worried the children asked their father to see if he could find Tiny.

The father contacted authorities who along with him investigated the old house, but Tiny was nowhere to be found. At last hope was almost given up, when a faint whimper was heard upstairs. The men hurried up the steps and discovered a small closet with the door locked. The door was finally dislodged and there, sitting huddled in the corner, amid debris, was frightened little Tiny.

The father of the children picked Tiny up, and took him home, where he was bathed, fed and bedded down in a little box lined with a soft pillow.

Today, Tiny was officially claimed by the Raymond Mallmann family, who live across the way from the old house. Mallmann has had Tiny checked by a veterinarian and he has received all his necessary shots to guard him against any sickness.

Friday Tiny no longer walked with his tail between his legs. It was wagging gaily as he walked and played with the happy Mallmann children.

The old house will be empty and dark tonight but across the way Tiny will probably be sitting in his little bed, waiting for daylight, when his little friends will wake for another day of play.

Rustlers Invade Waupaca

Newborn Colt Stolen From Scandinavia Barn

WAUPACA — The county now has a horse thief. The theft of a colt only a few hours old follows in the wake of two cases of cattle rustling reported within the past two months.

Tom Thorn, Scandinavia, reported the colt missing to the sheriff's department Thursday.

Thorn told Sheriff William Mork that the colt was born Thursday morning and he had checked on it shortly after noon and when he returned to the barn at 5:30 p.m. the colt was gone. There were four other horses in the barn at the time and the doors were bolted from the outside, Thorn said.

The colt is dark brown with a white blaze on its face.

A search was made of the area surrounding the barn but no trace of the colt was found, Mork said.

One of the two cattle rustling cases has been cleared but the other remains unsolved. Sheriff's department authorities apprehended Clintonville youths who stole a cow from a farm near there and others in Shawano County and sold them to a Marion livestock dealer.

A steer was butchered and the meat taken from a farm a few miles south of here this spring but the case has not been solved.

VIENNA — Wednesday night I caught an El Al Israel Airlines flight here from Tel Aviv. This Israeli national airline is the only one operating at the moment.
I asked an El Al agent if the company wasn't worried some humiliated Egyptian pilot might seek glory and redemption by shooting down the big jetliner.
"They haven't got much stuff left," the agent said.
Every Israeli prediction I have heard so far concerning Arabs has turned out accurate, so this was good enough for me and I took my seat on the plane.
"Shalom," the stewardess said to me. That is the standard Israeli greeting. It means peace. She continued:
"Do you know what they're saying in Arab countries? They're saying we had American help."
She was so furious she stamped on the galley floor.
"Shalom yourself," I said. "I hate to have to tell you this, but you did have American help."
"That's a lie," she said, with fire in her eye. "Your country declared itself neutral and this time I hope your President doesn't try to get us to stop beating them until they admit who beat them."
"Why do you try to tell me we had American help?"
"Because I was there and I have been on your side all along," I said. "Now be a good girl and hand me a pillow and offer me a drink."

day spent mostly in the Gaza area talking with kibbutz dwellers who had been under attack, and visiting Israeli mortar positions that were firing back at diehards continuing their sniper activity out of Gaza city itself.

Everywhere I went Wednesday I found war correspondents of all nationalities careening about in cars. The countryside was suddenly swarming with the press. This is always a sure sign of victory in modern warfare. Easily the biggest hazard of a journalist in Israel now is a crossroads collision with the competition.

This Israeli victory, however quick and decisive, will not have come easily. If Israel had attacked immediately after Gamal Abdel Nasser started the war by blockade, it is now plain to see it would have been a repeat of the Sinai campaign 11 years ago when Jews cut

Nuclear Plant Problems

Conservation Group, Utilities Work to Save Wildlife Values

News Record Madison Bureau
MADISON — The state Conservation Department and three major Wisconsin electric utilities are working out an agreement designed to protect fish and wildlife values in Lake Michigan in the vicinity of a proposed nuclear-powered electric generating plant.

Lewis Posekany, a biologist of the state Conservation Department, said the agency has an informal agreement from the companies to write into the proposed Public Service Commission (PSC) permit for the plant construction water intake and discharge designs that would eliminate the possibility of harm to wildlife values.

Hearing Held
The PSC a month ago held a hearing on the proposal of the Wisconsin Public Service Corp.,

through Egyptians like hot butter.

By respecting world opinion and holding back, the tiny country took the gravest possible risk and guaranteed itself the loss of many young lives when fighting started.

Israelis I have talked with—especially in places like the kibbutzes, where head, heart and hands of strong youth are assets beyond imagination—are generally agreed that restraint was indeed a political necessity, despite its military hazards.

However, this time they are quietly but grimly and somewhat bitterly determined that this must not be allowed to happen to yet another generation in the future.

I, for one, believe they mean it.

As of Wednesday night, Israeli officials had not yet released casualty lists, but it is generally assumed that casualties will be shockingly high. On Tuesday in Jerusalem, I learned the civilian count in that city alone after one night's shelling was over 500—some of them wounded for the second time when a hospital was shelled twice.

I have yet to hear anyone get loudly emotional about human losses, but in Israel they do value people highly, partly because they are short-handed anyway, and there is a deep anger that this stupid bloodbath had to take place.

An Offbeat Bit of Pathos

In one kibbutz near Gaza I wandered alone into a cow barn and found one of those offbeat bits of pathos you often stumble onto in wars. The barn had been clobbered by Arab artillery and more than half the bovine population of the kibbutz had earned Purple Hearts the hard way.

(No humans were killed in this particular place.)

The dead and hopelessly wounded animals had been carted off for butchering. The survivors, including about a hundred calves, with their hides ripped and punctured in various ways by shell fragments, stood and lay about, staring back at me with that sad, patient, benign expression peculiar to cattle.

One calf had lost an eye in the attack and was too weak from shock or bleeding to even raise its head from the floor but managed to look sweetly upward with the remaining eye.

Somehow that calf got to me. I think that was when I decided to go home. I am getting too old for this kind of thing.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOOD! ISHMAEL

Of the many stories of faith to come from the American Leprosy Missions, Govind Patel's is one of the most inspiring. His faith carried him through one of the deepest despair man can know.

A successful cloth merchant and high caste Hindu in his home town in central India, he was devoutly religious. Then tragedy struck; the symptoms of leprosy appeared. He turned over his business to his college educated sons and daughter, and left home to spare them disgrace. His condition, when it became known, ruined the girl's marriage plans. She and the sons renounced him and sent word that they considered him dead.

For a year, Patel wandered from one holy place to another looking for help. When all seemed hopeless, he heard of the Naini Leprosy Hospital at Allahabad near the Ganges River, where he had gone to die.

A Christian doctor at the hospital gave him hope and dignity for the first time. He learned his condition could be cured and that surgery and physiotherapy would help him regain the use of his hands and feet. Patel, in gratitude, offered his services as a hospital attendant. "There is nothing too menial for me to do to help a fellow sufferer," he said.

Patel also learned of a higher power of healing than that in the treatment room. Each morning he can be seen at prayers in the lovely white Christian chapel and at services on Sunday.

Termed 'Preposterous'

Froehlich Raps Plan on Administrative Salaries

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Speaker Harold Froehlich of the Wisconsin Assembly, leader of the Republican majority in that house, publicly denounced Gov. Warren P. Knowles' Department of Administration Friday for what he said was an unfair and discriminatory proposal for revising state administrative officer salary ranges.

Froehlich spoke at a hearing on a plan of the State Department of Personnel, a part of the Administration department, on a plan that would reward most of the higher ranking state appointive officials with higher salaries, but in varying degrees.

While providing for a top salary of $26,000 for the chief of the administration department, the proposal unfairly holds down the pay of other key state officials, including the administrative employees of the legislative branch, Froehlich protested.

The speaker endorsed the idea of providing raises of $600 a year, to a new level of $9,000, for members of the Legislature, but he said the full-time officer proposal is a "monstrosity."

The scope of legislators' duties is expanding, he said, and quality representation can only be assured by fair salaries for law-makers.

The speaker ridiculed the system of "position evaluation points" devised for the formulation of appointive officers' salaries and called it "the most preposterous thing I have ever heard."

He said he is "bewildered" by the consequences of the formula.

The protest probably will bring about a revision of the plan, which needs only the ratification of the legislative Joint Finance Committee to become law. Republicans control that committee, and Assembly Republicans appointed to the committee by the speaker outnumber the members representing the state Senate.

Churches Set Bible School For Monday

Four Congregations Announce Classes, Discussion Themes

Four vacation church schools of Appleton churches will start sessions at 9 a.m. Monday.

"Living in God's World" will be the theme of the one-week class at the First Congregational Church. Children from four years of age through sixth grade will be enrolled in the class they just have completed. A number of special projects are planned, including field trips and a picnic on the last morning of the school at Pierce Park.

Student Pastor Assists

First English Lutheran Church's school will be under the direction of Carol Baker, parish worker, assisted by Student Pastor Neale Thompson. It will concern "Living in God's Kingdom."

There will be a special emphasis on mission work in Ethiopia. The sessions will run through June 23 for three-year-olds through seventh grade.

"The God I Love" is the theme of classes at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church. Bible stories, films, handicraft, singing and recreation will be featured for the two weeks of nursery through junior high instruction.

Registrations are due by Sunday for the vacation Bible school of Our Savior Lutheran Church. Mrs. Donald Coon will be in charge of classes including nursery children three years old through the sixth grade.

Parents Pick 'TW' Chancellor

William Sewell Replaces Fleming On Madison Campus

MADISON (AP)—The stranger got off the elevator Friday and wandered toward the closed door where the University of Wisconsin regents were picking a new chancellor for the Madison campus.

He was stopped, questioned quietly and allowed to enter. Fifteen minutes later, the regents opened the door and announced the stranger was Prof. William H. Sewell, new chancellor of the 30,000-student campus.

The selection of the 57-year-old sociology professor elevated into a post prominence became formal Friday.

The selection of the 57-year-old W. Fleming, who is leaving to become the president of the University of Michigan, won both widespread acclaim and criticism for his handling of student outbursts on the campus.

Before his appointment, Sewell's name had not been mentioned in the speculation that centered around the nation-wide search for the second chancellor of the Madison campus.

University officials as well as newsmen waiting outside the regents' meeting room for the decision remained puzzled about his identity even after he had been ushered in before the board.

29-Inch Tall Drummer Surprising Young Man

BY CHUCK POSNIAK

Last week at one of the local clubs I saw the smallest drum set I have ever seen.

The bass drum was smaller than the standard size tom-tom. The tom-tom was smaller than the standard size snare drum. And the snare drum was smaller than, smaller than, smaller than(?).

As I stood in bewilderment,

Cliff-Hanger '500' on 'Wide World'

BY TV SCOUT

4-5:30 (Channels 11-9) — ABC's Wide World of Sports presents highlights of the two-day running of the Indianapolis "500," won by A. J. Foyt in a final-lap cliff-hanger. The second event covered is the National AAU Indoor Platform Diving Championship, from the outdoor pool at Arlington State College, Arlington, Tex., and a preview of the U. S. Open Golf Tournament from Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield, N. J.

6:30-7 (Channels 4-5) — Still another accident provides the excitement for Flipper viewers. Bud, who is always eager to earn an extra buck, enlists the aid of a young pal to help him paint a buoy. The lad tumbles inside the buoy and is knocked out. (R)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — The regulars take over most of Away We Go with a little time given to guests Lana Cantrell and comedians Skyles and Henderson. The latter have a nice little routine on sound effects while Miss Cantrell gets on as a part of host George Carlin's comedy skit during which she is picked out of the audience to be a Swami's helper.

7-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — Please Don't Eat the Daisies is turned over in large part to the Nash family's lively male quartet and an equally lively "ghost," who is acquainted with Joan and Jim. (R)

7:30-8 (Channels 4-5) — "Rub-on vocals. For the last few years (the Chevrans have been traveling the Midwest, making many television appearances. Their first record will be released in about two months. But before this happens, the group is going to change its name to The Den Mothers. I can just see Pete now, all dressed up in a Cub Scout uniform.

7:30-8:30 (Channels 2-7-12) — There's a strong performance by Albert Dekker and a well-manicured one by Hans Gudegast on Mission: Impossible. Both play would-be assassins out to kill a detecting Iron Curtain scientist. They have to be stopped. Dekker by force and Gudegast by sugar. Emmy-winner Barbara Bain has the neat task of cooling Gudegast's killer instincts with a romance. (R)

8-10:15 (Channels 4-5) — Saturday Night at the Movies presents "Robinson Crusoe on Mars," a science-fiction tale of dubious merit. Balmen fans may be surprised to find Adam West as an astronaut whose helper is a monkey. After landing on Mars, West disappears but not his chimp. His fellow astronaut, Paul Mantel, must find him. (R) thought to myself, "This must belong to a four-foot grade school student who is just reaching the age at which he wants to start playing drums with a rock and roll band."

Another Surprise

After I had been standing there a while I heard a voice from behind me say, "Nice drum set isn't it?" I turned around only to be met with a bigger surprise.

Instead of seeing a young four-foot grade school student, I saw a 20-year-old young man. However, he wasn't quite four feet tall. In fact, he wasn't quite three feet tall.

He was 29 inches tall, weighed 36 pounds, and, while standing on his tip toes, barely came higher than my knee caps.

Set Custom Made

He was Pete Risch, billed as "the world's smallest drummer." As probably guessed, Pete is a midget. He also is drummer and head attraction with a group from Illinois called Pete and The Chevrons.

Pete's drum set, which sounds as good as most any of the standard size, was designed and built especially for Pete by a Chicago man. It has a bicycle seat as a drum stool.

Pete began playing the drums and singing about four years ago and has been traveling ever since. All of the Chevrons have nicknames. Pete's fits him perfectly. It's Gremlin.

Singer Prince Dynamite

Lead singer for the Gremkins, oops, I mean Chevrons, is Prince Dynamite Marly Fischer. Marty also plays rhythm guitar and organ.

Bass guitarist is Bill Marx. He also sings harmony and has probably the weirdest of all the nicknames, The Wild Toad.

Almost every group has its nonchalant member and Sonny Sloan is the Chevrons' "Uncle Drunk." While not guzzling down a bottle of soda pop, Sonny manages to play rhythm guitar and organ. He sings as well.

To Change Name

The last member and head spokesman of the Chevrons is Pete Woodruff. He plays lead guitar, bass guitar and manages to throw his two cents worth in on vocals.

For the last few years (the Chevrons have been traveling the Midwest, making many television appearances.

Their first record will be released in about two months. But before this happens, the group is going to change its name to The Den Mothers. I can just see Pete now, all dressed up in a Cub Scout uniform.

Escalation Part of Johnson Policy

The credibility gap between the Johnson Administration and the American people is in for some widening because of a newly published book by Roger Hilsman, formerly Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs.

A couple of years ago President Johnson said that American boys shouldn't be fighting battles which were essentially the business of the Asian peoples. He has repeatedly insisted that he is all for negotiations about the Vietnamese war with just about anyone who would come to the conference table, and that he is open to "unconditional discussions." But according to Hilsman's book, To Move a Nation, decisions on escalation were made a long time ago.

Hilsman resigned his position three months after Johnson became President and he apparently resigned because he felt he was losing the struggle against the massive American involvement in Vietnam. Two others who took his side also have left — Undersecretary of State George Ball and Michael Forrestal, a White House aide on Far Eastern affairs. And the winners, policy wise, are Walt Rostow, now chief White House advisor on foreign policy, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and the various military leaders who certainly have a row of their own to hoe.

Hilsman argues that his point of view, and what he considers that of President John Kennedy, was to seek a political rather than a military solution in Vietnam. He opposed the continued American support of President Diem and it may be that he helped to undermine Diem, although of course he doesn't say so. Soon after Johnson became President, Hilsman writes that "from both the people he turned to for advice on Vietnam and his own approach to the problem, it seemed clear that his natural instinct was toward attempting a military solution to the question of Vietnam, although hedging it with political qualifications. I was sure that the United States under his direction would not leap irresponsibly into a policy of military escalation, but it was obviously going to take the military path — even though it climbed the ladder of escalation slowly and deliberately."

We have been led to believe that the American decision to bomb North Vietnam was in retaliation for an attack on an American ship in international waters. Congress responded to this by approving a resolution encouraging President Johnson to use all measures necessary to deter aggression in the area. But Hilsman writes that Walt Rostow was arguing in favor of bombing North Vietnam as early as 1961, four years before the Gulf of Tonkin incident. Could it be that the Administration actually was seeking out such incidents to justify an escalation planned long before and in keeping with the seeking of a military solution?

Of course Hilsman antagonism can be considered part of the continuing feud between the Kennedy and Johnson members of the faithful. Hilsman argues that he does not believe President Kennedy would have taken the current course, that he wanted to meet the guerrilla aggression with counter guerrilla forces from South Vietnam so that if such efforts failed, the United States could accept the result without loss of face or fatal consequences for the rest of Southeast Asia. There is no real proof of this point of view.

But Hilsman writes that what Kennedy "wanted most to avoid was turning Vietnam into an American war. He preferred to treat the problem of Vietnam as something other than war and to avoid getting American prestige so involved that the United States could not accept a negotiated settlement along the lines of the Geneva accords in Laos — when and if the Vietnamese desired it."

This can well be Monday morning quarterbacking. But certainly the policy the United States has followed since Lyndon Johnson became President has turned the conflict into an American war in which our prestige is at stake at a high cost. At this stage, it can only be viewed as one of the most colossal misjudgments in our history.

Pollution Can be Overcome

One of the major problems in overcoming the pollution of our lakes and rivers is the lack of liaison between communities. While some cities will install secondary treatment plants, others will drag their feet. This is particularly true of rural areas growing rapidly into residential suburbs of larger cities. It also is true of areas like Door County where so far no real progress has been made on the ever more serious problem of sewage pollution of Green Bay and Lake Michigan.

The case is not exactly similar but the area around Seattle, Wash. has over the years managed to reclaim a major recreation lake from serious pollution and encourage a population of 800,000 in 230 square miles to join a metropolitan system which so far has made great headway in overcoming pollution.

As documented by Earl Cark in Harpers' magazine, both Lake Washington and Puget Sound were being increasingly polluted and efforts to get the small residential communities to do something about their part in it failed. Finally the state legislature authorized metropolitan systems which could attack major problems of urban communities such as sewage and garbage disposal, water supply, transportation planning, parking and parkways. The metro of Seattle hasn't been authorized to do all that but it did get permission from the voters for the sewage problem. A hot dry summer helped persuade the rural voters in particular that something must be done although the author concedes that "if it's tough to sell a revamped system of government to the voters, it's even tougher to convince an entrenched political hierarchy." But once the treatment facilities were underway, even suburban areas which had refused to endorse the plans applied to join.

Lake Washington now is expected by 1970 to be cleaner than it was in 1950. More facilities are needed to insure that Puget Sound, too, will be clean but plans are underway. As promoters point out, the West does not have the problems of the East where the polluting has been going on much longer.

There still is time in Wisconsin to clean up the lakes and even the Fox River to some extent. But it will take more than pious promises. The latest problem — oil from tankers on the shores of the Sturgeon Bay ship canal — indicates that laws will have to be tougher and that there will have to be at least regional if not federal statutes, passed—and enforced.

But the Seattle story is a hopeful one. Lake Washington was on the way to becoming irreclaimable as experts say that Lake Erie has become. Everyone in this area has some stake in the waters of Lake Winnebago, the Fox River, Green Bay and Lake Michigan.

Warn Your Bike Riders

Invigorating summer days and the end of another school year mean an increase of bicycles on city streets. With the increase will come an added responsibility for parents and for the children who operate the vehicles.

A bicycle may not have a powerful engine or an impressive body structure, but bike riders generally come under the same traffic laws which govern regular motorists. While bike operators are seldom stopped for speeding, they can swerve into the wrong lane, run a stop sign or cause an accident just as a car or truck.

Many bike operators profit from their experience with a two-wheeler as they learn proper traffic procedure and possess a method of transportation which is faster and seems to them preferable to walking. But there are others who can and do cause problems for motorists. Drivers of cars have a responsibility to watch out for bikes and their operators, but bike riders also must be held responsible for their actions on traffic.

Parents with children who ride bikes would do well to make sure their offspring are aware of the responsibility which riding a bike on city streets involves. All too often bike riders misuse the lightness and size of their vehicles and become far more reckless than they would with a car. This leads to a problem of which drivers of cars are well aware — the daring young man on the lightweight bike who seems to be taunting the motorist to hit him.

The responsibility rests on the shoulders of both bike riders and the drivers of motor vehicles. While the latter are usually sufficiently cautious, a word of admonition to the youngsters could improve the traffic situation this summer.

Indians Have Telegraph System

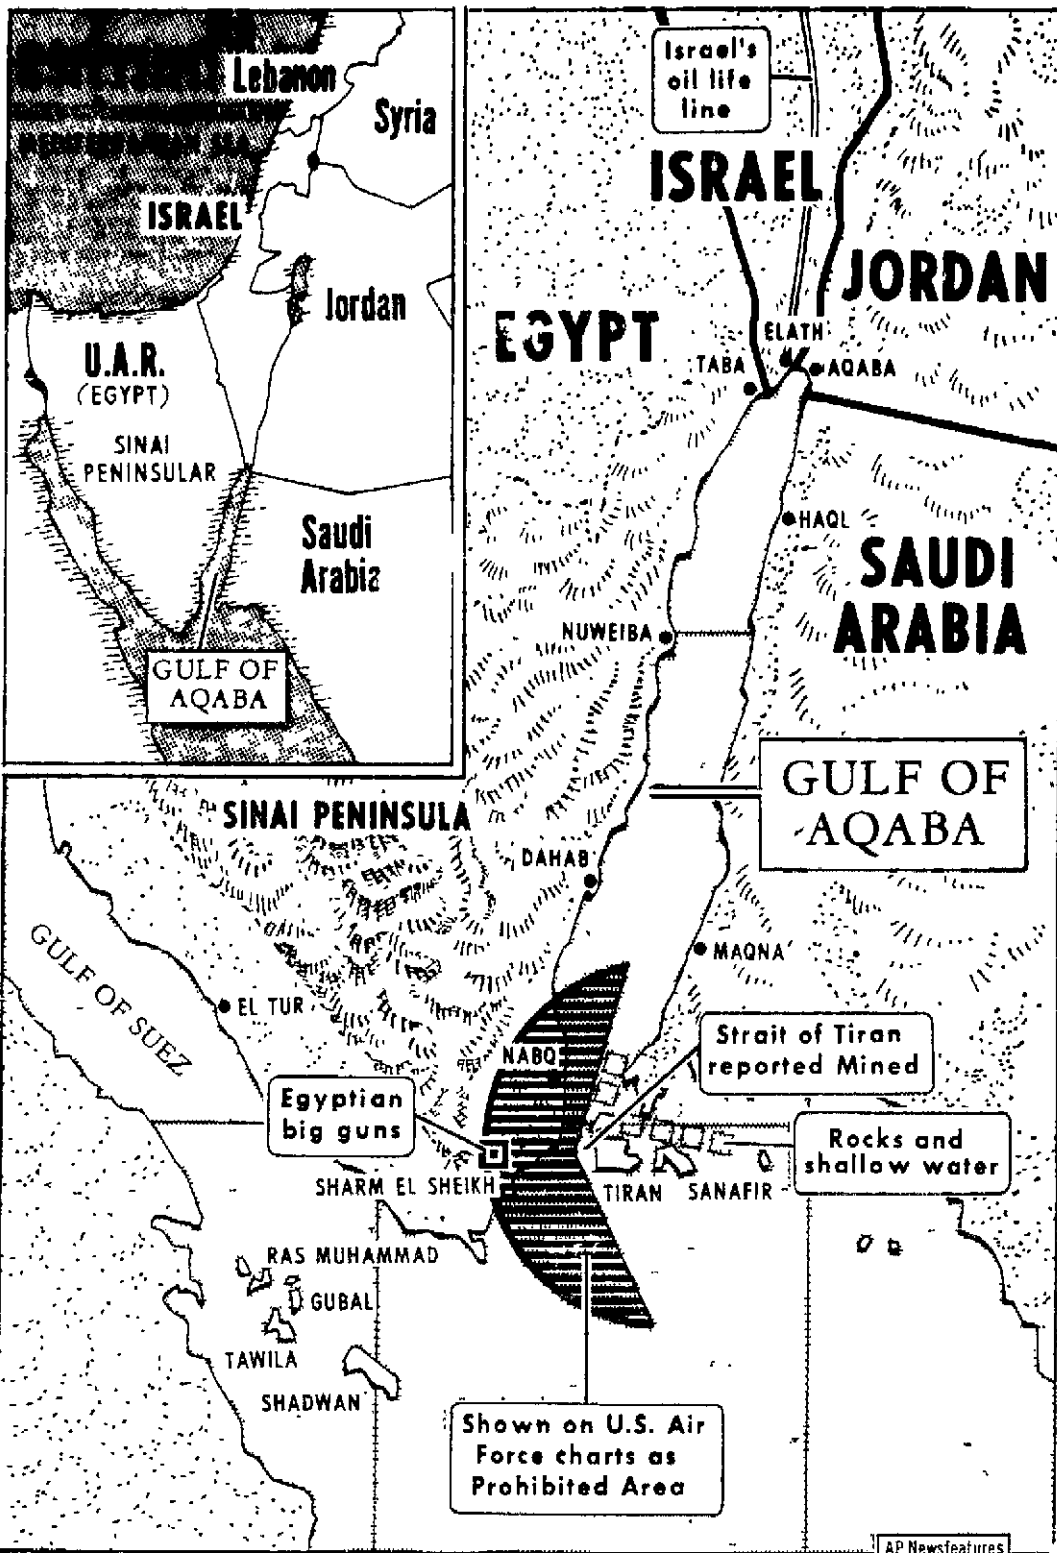

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for June 22, 1867.

A Denver letter in the New York Tribune, printed here, describes the peculiar methods the Indian tribes in the Platte Valley possess of telegraphing each other the movements of the military.

They can see every train, every movement in the valley, military or otherwise, without exposing themselves to discovery. The unbroken range of bluffs which skirt the valley on the south command a complete view of the entire Platte region. Their spies occupy the bluffs constantly, and as they have good field-glasses, and as they purchase from the traders, they can distinguish every movement for 20 miles. It seems impossible to Eastern readers that they can so readily ascertain every movement, but when it is considered that a train can be seen distinctly on the plain 10 miles distant with the naked eye, it needs no argument that the Indians, with good glasses, know every military movement as soon as it is commenced. During all of last week they were signaling from the southern bluffs southward. They signal easily for 20 miles with a lighted arrow, which they shoot into the air, and they give communication from bluff to bluff that way. During the day they signal in other ways. Sometimes they do so by a pocket looking-glass. They get the focus of the sun, make a reflection visible for five miles, and thus direct the knowledge of movement of

Gulf of Aqaba Holds Key to Peace in the Middle East

By AP Newsfeatures

Like the two fingers of a V for Victory sign, the Gulf of Suez and the Gulf of Aqaba split away from each other at the northern end of the Red Sea.

Through the Gulf of Suez runs one of the heaviest shipping lanes of the world, connecting the Mediterranean Sea and the Atlantic Ocean with the Indian Ocean and the Far East.

Through the adjacent Gulf of Aqaba, which Queen Sheba once traveled on her visit to King Solomon, runs the route that carries vital supplies from the East to the Israeli port of Elath. Without it, the economy of Israel might well languish.

Excluded from Suez. Egypt has excluded Israeli ships from the Suez canal for eleven years. She was forced in 1956 to open the Gulf of Aqaba to them, but always contended their passage was illegal.

Now Egypt has exerted once more what she regards as her sovereign rights, and has barred Israeli shipping from the gulf.

What will Israel do about it? On that question may depend the future of the Middle East.

The Gulf of Aqaba would not be easy to navigate under hostile guns. Sweltering under the equatorial sun, it is about the size of Long Island Sound — 100 miles long and 12 to 17 miles wide. At its head are the twin ports of Elath and of Aqaba, now Jordanian although claimed at one time by Saudi Arabia. Aqaba was the port of Solomon's fleet, and a military port for the Romans.

Lawrence of Arabia seized it from the Turks in World War I and made it a British base of operations. British troops occupied it in 1948 to keep it out of the hands of the Jews then in rebellion, but the Jews gained possession of Elath, only four miles away, and built it into a modern harbor.

Deep and easily navigable through most of its length, the Gulf of Aqaba, like Long Island Sound, is reduced at its entrance, the Strait of Tiran, to a narrow and easily dominated passage. There at Sharm el Sheikh Egyptian guns look out over troubled waters hemmed in by reefs and shallows and now, supposedly, by minefields. On the other side of the strait lies Saudi Arabia, also hostile to Israel, if unfriendly to Egypt.

It is here then at a corner of the barren land bridge where the Mediterranean and the Red Seas nearly meet that one more decision will be made on the peace of the world.

Townsmen Should Pay Share of City Costs

Editor Post-Crescent

It is time to call a spade a spade.

Local township residents are living under the wing of city police and fire protection enjoying the benefits of civilization and utilizing the city services without paying their fair share.

The city provides services at a loss to every organization from the Red Cross to the Boy Scouts of America even though township residents share equally in the benefits with city residents. Therefore, a method of securing a more fair balance of payments should be arranged. My suggestion is to modify the fees charged throughout the cities. For example:

- 1. Golf green fees. Residents: $1.25 per nine holes. Non-residents: $10.00 per nine holes.
- 2. Swimming pool fees. Residents: $.25 per day. Non-residents: $3.00 per day.
- 3. Hospital room rates. Residents: $20.00 per day. Non-residents: $50.00 per day.

This list could go on and on, Library fees, YMCA memberships, Recreation Department Leagues' fees and etc.

Give the tax islanders the privilege to pay their fair share.

Presidential Hopefuls, Their Possibilities And That Primary Bill

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The disclosure that Gov. Reagan of California is willing to leave his desk and travel 2,000 miles to Wisconsin to make a speech at a Republican funding rally will be added to the indications that he is among those interested in the fact that Wisconsin has one of the early presidential primary elections of the country.

The man who won such a smashing victory in the big state last fall is surely one of the strikingly interesting "new faces" in American politics, and as the practicing politicians know, the "new face" sometimes has a good deal of appeal for the electorate. Doubtless the Republican state committee was primarily concerned about providing a program at its major fund raising event that would induce well-wishers to attend. Yet it may very well be that if Reagan survives his first year in the California executive office with reasonable success, he will find some boosters here willing to organize a slate on his behalf in the presidential delegate election next spring.

Wyngaard

HOW IT LOOKS

At the moment, it seems reasonably plain that there will be a contest for the votes of the Wisconsin Republican convention delegates in the presidential trial heat here next spring.

Gov. Romney of Michigan has virtually telegraphed his own intentions by approving the formation of a volunteer campaign group here.

Given his proximity as a near-neighbor of Wisconsin and his former associations in the Wisconsin business community as one-time head of American Motors, he could not very gracefully ignore the Wisconsin testing ground in any event. The polls have shown that former Vice President Richard Nixon retains the affection of the party regulars, the oldtimers who remember his previous service and the fact that he carried Wisconsin the last time the national Republican ticket won here.

Romney's chance of accumulating preconvention stature and hard commitments, will depend as much upon his showing in the early balloting in state primaries, including the Wisconsin primary, as any other single factor.

Indeed, even that prospect is dependent upon his own delicate political arrangements in his own state capitol. He confronts in Michigan a fiscal problem of dangerous dimensions and has a legislature that is not altogether sympathetic to his purposes, according to the stories he told on his last visit to ranking Wisconsin politicians.

NIXON SITUATION FAVORABLE

Nixon's situation on the whole is perhaps the most favorable among the early aspirants. He has no problems of making a current record, since he doesn't hold an office. Normally the fact that a candidate does not have a firm political base is regarded as a handicap. Yet Nixon's personality and career are familiar enough, it appears, to give him a chance to overcome the liability that he cannot start with the assurance of loyalty of a big home state delegation.

The early speculations and calculations of the candidates are being made on the assumption that the Wisconsin presidential primary law will remain as it stands.

One of the great weaknesses of that law from the viewpoint of the serious citizen concerned about an accurate reflection of the wishes of the voters in each party, is that it lists as candidates only those men who find it useful or strategically necessary to file here.

WOULD BE MEANINGFUL

Pending in the Legislature is a measure conceived by a bipartisan committee, that would make the testing ground truly meaningful. It would put on the ballot all of the candidates known to be candidates, in each party, and permit their withdrawal only upon a sworn statement that they are not in fact candidates for a presidential nomination. Thus would the emphasis of the system be put on the right of the people to express themselves fully and freely, rather than upon the strategy of the candidates and their managers.

This correspondent cannot imagine any serious citizen, objectively interested in honest and accurate electoral expression, opposing such a bill. Yet the measure lies inert in a legislative committee file, and legislative politicians are finding a series of pretexts for permitting it to die.

Decries P-C Reaction To Education Project

Editor, Post-Crescent

Your reaction to the Vietnam Summer Project, as expressed in Sunday's "We Don't Need Education on Vietnam," seemed harsh and defensive, and I am puzzled by it.

The Post-Crescent has quite consistently taken a stand against escalation of the war. You have done what you can to raise the questions, as you see them, before the public. Therefore, one can, to a degree, understand why you resented James Siesennop's statement that "The idea (of the Vietnam Summer Project) is to bring Vietnam into communities where it has never been brought up as an issue."

But do you believe that one newspaper is really able to reach all the communities within the community? There are, I am sure, a large number of subscribers who never read the editorial page, another considerable group who never read the international news on the front page. Unfortunately, most people seem to accept the inevitability of escalation, and they usually try to justify their position by saying that after all, the government knows far more about the situation than they do. This, together with the muddled idea that "We must escalate in order to support our boys," tends to cause the majority of people to shake their head in despair and anxiety, but to feel quite helpless in the face of it all.

The goal of the Vietnam Summer Project, as I understand it, is to replace anxiety with informed concern, and to seek out and mobilize public opinion. It is the belief of those working on the project that there are many citizens who would more openly oppose the war if they had the confidence which results from an informed personal opinion based on historical fact and current statistics. It is the hope of the project to reach people through person-to-person discussion, to supplement the printed page, and that as a result more people will express themselves, not necessarily by marching on the White House with pitchforks, but by means provided by a democracy, i.e., letters to senators and congressmen, and support of anti-war candidates in the coming elections.

We who dwell in small cities and towns will, I suppose always be touchy when we suspect the big city folk think they can tell us something. But to play on the emotion where the Vietnam Summer Project is concerned is unfair and certainly unwarranted. The project will be pursued as avidly in New York and Chicago as it will be in Appleton and Little Chute, because the "communities" referred to by Siesennop exist within Chicago as often as in the Fox Valley.

I hope that the Post-Crescent and the Vietnam Summer Project will find ways to work together toward the common goal they share: an informed and responsive public.

Ancient Mosque Gets Facelifting

CAIRO (AP) — The Turkish-designed front side of the 1,000-year-old Azhar Mosque will be changed to the Fatimide style, an announcement said.

"This change was essential to keep the homogeneity of the building," the announcement added.

The Turkish style is castle-like and depends on high walls while Fatimide's buildings keep the walls low with Oriental decorations atop.

Estate Executors File $2,795 Claim Against Appleton

Catherine M. Davis and a Milwaukee bank, co-trustees and executors of the J. B. MacLaren estate, have filed a claim for $2,795 against the city in connection with the Soldiers Square ramp project.
 The city condemned estate property for the site of the new municipal parking ramp. The claim is that as a result of the claimants suffered $1,257 in rental losses. In addition, they say there were $1,538 in expenses in removing furnishings and other personal property from the building.
 Recently, a Circuit Court jury handed down a decision in the condemnation appeal by the city, resulting in an award of $194,476 to the estate. The figure was $36,000 lower than that originally recommended by a court-appointed commission.

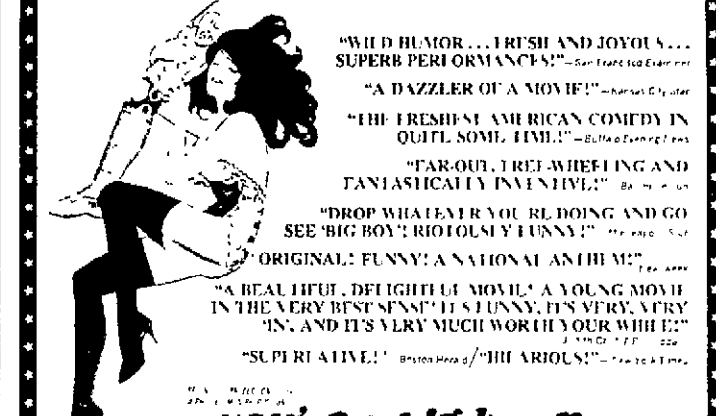

Deadline Set for KHS Students to Change Classes

KAUKAUNA — Deadline for changes in classes for the 1967-68 school year at Kaukauna High School will be Tuesday, according to Fred Baribeau, guidance director at the school. Final class selections must be made by that time to permit sectioning of classes, teacher assignments and student placement. Programming was completed earlier this year but some students change their minds after originally signing for a class.
 Changes may be made by contacting Baribeau or Jerome Kroll, assistant principal. Students receiving failures at the end of the last school term may contact either of the men concerning credit make-up responsibilities.

Make a Window Crayon Box For Easy Color Selection

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's fun-project for boys and girls is a time-saver that makes selection of crayons easy without emptying the entire box

It is accomplished simply by cutting a "window" three-eighths of an inch high all the way across the front of the crayon box near the bottom edge as shown in Figure 1 and a similar "window" across the back of box (Figure 2). Cover the openings with a wide band of transparent tape. This will close the openings, yet will allow you to see the various colors of crayon.

Two slots are provided because a 16-crayon box has eight crayons in the front row and eight in the back row. The colors are designated by the crayon wrappers. Consequently, if you want the red crayon in a hurry, you won't have to slide all the crayons out of the box to find it. It will be visible instantly through the front or rear window and thus can be removed individually.

A school yard is made up of grass and blacktop pavement. If, however, 3/4 of the grass were blacktopped and 1-3 of the present blacktop were converted into lawn, the areas of each would then be equal. What fraction of the school yard is now composed of grass?

Answer

2-5 of the yard is grass. If 3/4 grass plus 1-3 blacktop equals 3/4 grass plus 2-3 blacktop, then 1/4 grass equals 1-3 blacktop, or two parts of grass to three parts of blacktop.

1,200 Youths At Dance In Menasha

MENASHA — Some 1,200 youths attended the first of a series of 22 dances, sponsored by the Menasha Recreation Department, Thursday in the Memorial Building.

Recreation Director Robert Vanevenhoven said the attendance was up at least 15 percent over last year's opener. The large turnout was due to popularity of "Bermuda Night," which will be repeated each Thursday evening, he said.

Youths may wear bermuda shorts at the Thursday dances, but proper dress will be required at the Sunday night events.

The dances start at 8 p.m. and run to 11 p.m. Admission stands at 30 cents.

Packer Physician In Plane Mishap

Dr. Nellen Escapes Injuries In Crash Near Oshkosh Port

OSHKOSH — Dr. James Nellen, Green Bay Packers team physician, escaped injury late Friday afternoon when his single-engine airplane flipped over during an attempted emergency landing at the Winnebago County Airport.

The plane landed in a rain-softened field about 100 yards short of the south end of the southwest-northeast runway about 6 p.m.

Nellen, 43, route 1, De Pere, who is a member of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents, was returning to Green Bay from a meeting in Madison when his four-place Cessna Skylane developed engine trouble.

Engine Stuttered

He told Winnebago County police that the engine stuttered, began to make loud noises, then stopped when the plane was about three miles south of the airport. Dr. Nellen said he headed for the airport runway but fell short.

The nose wheel of the plane hit first and plowed up about 150 feet of field before the left wing dipped and dug into the ground, flipping the plane over on its back.

Both wings, the nose and the tail assembly of the plane were extensively damaged.

Charge County With Discrimination in Airfield Controversy

FAA Receives Complaint; Could Stop Port Expansion

BY DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — A formal complaint of discrimination has been filed with the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) by William Brennand against Winnebago County.

The complaint was contained in a five-page letter addressed to Enoch Anderson of the FAA's Minneapolis headquarters.

Brennand, whose private airfield just to the south of the Winnebago County Airport has been purchased for expansion of the county facility, has charged the county has refused to offer him comparable terms to operate from the county field as are given the present fixed base operator on the field, Warren Basler.

Aid Held Up?

FAA officials Friday acknowledged they had received the complaint and that an investigation would be conducted. They said they would attempt to resolve the dispute without going to a public hearing, but declined to comment further at this time.

If the complaint is upheld, the county could face the possibility of having federal funds held up for its expansion project. The amount of federal aid for the new runway currently under construction is about $1 million.

Brennand said he anticipates being forced to close his operations July 1, at which time the buildings are scheduled for removal.

He has asked the FAA to restrain the county from taking his land and buildings until he can find a new suitable location for his business, or, that the county be required to furnish a temporary location.

Business Damaged

He said if suitable arrangements cannot be made his business would be "drastically affected and damaged as a result of the airport improvement and the discriminatory conduct of the aviation committee." He added that he believed that a pattern of discrimination existed which would "justify action on the part of your agency to withhold funds for the present airport improvement program."

Brennand charged the county has refused to offer him comparable lease terms as Basler has. "While I do not ask that the county duplicate the present operator's facilities for me, I do believe I should be given consideration in rent to compensate for the permanent improvements I would construct on county land. Instead, I would in effect be paying more than Basler while having substantially less in facilities. I believe the airport committee's position in this matter constitutes discriminatory action."

County-Owned Facilities

All of Basler's facilities, with the exception of his office building, are county owned and leased to Basler. Since those arrangements, the county has indicated it will only lease land to any other operator and require the operator to construct his own buildings.

Brennand contends that in addition to the building leases to Basler, the county has provided, at county expense, roads, taxiways, parking area and sidewalks, and that utility services are made available. None of these, he said, are offered him.

"In addition, I would be paying personal property taxes to the county for the building improvements. The present operator pays no property tax on the buildings it occupies."

Assistant Manager Pay

He contended that Basler's gross rental amounts to only 20 cents per square foot of building space and that the county then pays Basler $2,400 a year as assistant airport manager which reduces the net rent to only 10 cents per square foot.

In reference to the salary as assistant airport manager, Brennand said, "We believe this to be a mere guise to reduce the annual rent."

Brennand said that in closed negotiations with the county aviation committee, the committee had agreed that if he would install all improvements on the land the initial land rental would be $1 per year to allow him to recoup his investments in permanent airport improvements.

Rejected Terms

Later, he said, the committee rejected the terms they had previously agreed to and requested $1,800 a year land rental and indicated in the future they would want a percentage of his profits in addition.

Brennand's attorney said Friday it wasn't their intention to stop the airport expansion project but only to force the county to treat them on an equal basis with the present operator.

He said they would be willing to locate somewhere else besides the county airport, but it has been impossible to find sufficient land on which to put a 3,000 foot landing strip. The only land now available, he said, is land Brennand owns adjacent to the county airport.

Brennand applied for a building permit for a hangar on that land, but the permit was denied on the grounds of improper zoning for that use.

DAIRY INDUSTRY 330A

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Optimism for the state's dairy industry has been the keynote so far of the Alice in Dairyland Festival which will end tonight with the selection of the new state queen.

Dairy leaders have expressed it while participating in festival events. It has been reflected in the eyes and words of 14 young women hoping to gain the title of Alice in Dairyland, including Pat Dobberke of Neenah and Connie Weyers of Kaukauna.

Even rainy weather and the threat of a tornado Friday night has failed to dampen the enthusiasm which is mounting in anticipation of the banquet and coronation ceremony tonight.

The money is the guarantee to book John Gary and Rosemary Clooney in theatrical shows for the World Food Exposition at Madison Sept. 15 to 24.

"We are hoping, of course, that the fund or a substantial portion will be supplied by dairy breed associations and processors," ADA President Robert Bird, a dairy farmer at Brownsville, explained.

Paith in Wisconsin's agricultural future was expressed by financial institution officials at a dinner Friday.

Parents of most of the Alice candidates were among the dinner guests. They were introduced as their daughters told of their aims, aspirations and activities.

The candidates also presented skits, worked out on short notice, as part of the judging routine. The most unique featured Lil' Butter, Evil O-Leo and Milk Man. O-Leo, naturally, was foiled by Milk Man.

David Williams, assistant director of University of Wisconsin Extension, attended the banquet in his official role as Wisconsin's June Dairy Month Chairman. Donald N. McDowell, director of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, also was present.

Menasha Joins Winnebago In 'Brigadoon' Map Status

NEENAH - MENASHA — But you can't get there from here.

The Madison map-makers goofed again and threats of secession and forming new republics are making the rounds once more.

First it was the "Brigadoon" village of Winnebago and now they're slighting the Twin Cities.

According to Miss Mary Margaret De Clercq, assistant secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, tourists won't be able to find High Cliff State Park this summer, at least not if they follow the map put out by the State Conservation Department.

Sure, High Cliff is listed on the guide to state parks and state forests. It's just that you've got to reach Menasha to get there. And Menasha isn't on the map.

Highways Missing

The index to the map advises motorists to travel nine miles east of Menasha on State 114 to reach the site. But State 114 isn't on the map either.

Nor is State 55, the other connecting highway.

Miss De Clercq dropped a note to the State Conservation Department, pointing out the deletions on the map. She added, "It appears that Winnebago County might be well advised to form a republic."

"May heaven help the travelers trying to locate High Cliff," she said.

154 Form Last AVS Class

Educator Tells Graduates About 'The Dignity of Work'

"Of all the groups graduating, you are probably the only one which really knows where you are going." 154 graduates of the trades and industry department of the Appleton Vocational School (AVS) were told at commencement Friday.

Speaking on "The Dignity of Work" was Dr. Frances Kline-Oshkosh, an educator who was instrumental in organizing the Fox Valley Resource Development Center.

This was the final graduating class of the 50-year-old school. Four counties of the Fox Valley area will be organized July 1 into Vocational District No. 12.

"You are a goal-centered group; a group with a motivation which has developed the skills which we need so very much today," Dr. Kline said.

Healthy Attitudes Present

Along with the motivation must have come healthy attitudes toward work, teamwork and cooperation, else the graduates would not have made the effort to improve themselves, she added.

"Wisconsin is considered a great state, important in the field of manufacturing. But if you look around, we are not rich in the natural resources which build industries. The answer to our importance must lie with the skilled workers like yourself, who form the backbone of the state," the speaker said.

Looking toward the future, the speaker challenged the graduates to constantly keep their skills flexible so there need be no fear for the future.

"Develop recreational, spiritual and social obligations which will make you a worthy part of the community," she charged.

"As a member of a community, you have obligations to many people — yourself, your family, church and other institutions. Don't wait to improve the community around you."

"This includes all levels of community — your city, state, country and even the world," Dr. Kline said, adding, "This is a service-oriented generation and you are a part of it."

The graduates received two-year associate of arts degrees, two-year diplomas, one-year diplomas and one-semester certificates.

Milton Ness, AVS director, brought the words of welcome. Robert T. Hansen, a member of the board, presented the diplomas, while Joe Gunderson, coordinator of business education, presented the graduating class and the Rev. Ellis Waggoner, associate pastor, Trinity Lutheran Church, had the invocation.

Fast Bike but Squad Car Wins Race

An Appleton boy riding a three-speed bicycle led a police squad car on a four-block chase Friday night after the cyclist struck the rear end of the squad car and fled from the scene.

The police car was headed south in the 100 block of S. Drew Street at about 7:15 p.m. when the policeman stopped the car at mid-block to wait for traffic in front of the car.

The policeman reported he heard a thud against the rear of his car. When he stepped outside, the policeman saw a boy picking up a bicycle from the roadway. The officer asked the boy if he was injured and the youth replied he was not hurt.

Noticing a cracked tail light and scratches to the car's paint, the officer told the youth to get into the squad car while he placed a call to the police station.

The boy mounted his bike and left. The policeman said he used the car's red light and siren during the chase. The youth, who said his brakes failed, was turned over to his mother.

Ronald Beck Missed the glamour of formal Appleton High School-West commencement exercises Thursday night but he got his diploma before his capped and gowned classmates. Placed in Body Cast

Hospitalized Grad Gets First 1967 AHS Diploma

While the rest of the graduates of Appleton High School-West marched to "Pomp and Circumstance" Thursday night, one member of the class of '67 sat in a bed in a hospital room.

Except for five weeks at home in March and April, Ronald Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald G. Beck, 2391 Bluemound Drive, has been confined to Appleton Memorial Hospital since November when he broke his left leg in three places in a motorcycle accident.

Despite being unable to sit or write since being placed in a body cast from his chest down in February, Beck actually received his diploma before his classmates.

Each week, two of his teachers, Daniel Donarski and Hubert Wetak, together spent three hours with him while he was in the body cast. They gave him oral tests. In this way, Beck was able to keep up with studies in math IV, chemistry, Latin and English.

Beck was presented his diploma late Thursday morning by Donald Taylor, High School guidance counselor. His classmates did not receive diplomas until commencement exercises Thursday evening.

Beck was happy he was able to graduate on schedule but said, "I would feel better if I could have been with the rest of my class graduating at the high school."

Beck, however, had his body cast removed Tuesday and has only two more weeks left at the hospital. He plans to study electronics at DeVry Institute in Chicago this winter.

Appleton Will Start Streetscape Work Within 10 Days

Work Out Beautification Details Next Week; Paving on Fast Pace

Streetscaping of nine blocks of the reconstructed College Avenue business district will begin within the next 10 days, Appleton's construction coordinating committee was told Friday afternoon.

Public Works Director Frank Keuler, along with representatives of Vinton Construction Co., Manitowoc, are scheduled to meet early next week with the Milwaukee consultants who are completing the detailed working plans for the avenue beautification.

Attending the meeting were city officials and representatives of various firms working on the avenue project, along with officials of water, gas and electrical utilities.

Paving Almost Done

It was reported that paving is proceeding on a revised, stepped-up schedule, with pouring of the last 24-foot lane to start next week.

The normal curing time for new pavement, it was reported, is an average of seven days.

Keuler said every attempt would be made to open some avenue intersections as soon as possible to permit north and southbound traffic to cross.

"Because of streetscaping work we are somewhat reluctant to open all crossings and then cause a slow-up of the final phase of the reconstruction," Keuler said.

Standards' Bases Installed

Placement of the street light standards and installation of new fixtures is set for later in the month. Bases for the standards have been installed and the electrical contractor is doing the wiring.

It also was disclosed that late this month the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. intends to begin rebuilding its Memorial Drive-College Avenue-Richmond street crossing.

Officials said this will force closing of the intersection but advised that by then State Street would be open as a traffic carrier. The shipment of the long rails which North Western intends to install is due here June 26.

First of Its Kind in Fox Valley Area; Sponsoring Association to Draft Charter

The Fox Valley's first annual Adult Education Week will be conducted the week of Sept. 10.

Highlights of the effort to acquaint area persons with adult and continuing educational opportunities will be an informational campaign, with talks to civic and service clubs and open houses at participating institutions.

Plans for the week were announced Friday at a meeting of the Adult Education Association of the Fox Valley at the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center.

Named to head the association's organizational committee was Nick Bordini, director of the Kaukauna Vocational, Technical and Adult School. Serving with him will be Marvin Gegan, Menasha Public School superintendent; Orrin Meyer, Calumet County extension agent; Kathryn Flynn, director of Neenah Public Library; Mrs. Maxine Vanevenhoven, director of women's programs for the Appleton YMCA; and Max G. Among those represented at Friday's meeting were directors of vocational, technical and adult schools from Neenah to Kaukauna, area public schools' superintendents, librarians, county agents from Outagamie, Winnebago and Calumet counties and members of the Fox Valley Center staff.

Hawks Win First Round at State Democratic Convention

But Floor Fight Expected Today On Vietnam Stand Resolution

LA CROSSE — The Hawks won the first round in the "Battle of Vietnam" here Friday afternoon during the opening session of the State Democratic Convention, but a fight on the floor this morning was all but assured over the controversial stand of the U. S. in southeast Asia.

After a three-hour battle, the resolutions committee Friday afternoon whittled down the 13 proposed resolutions concerning the conduct of the war and the Johnson Administration policy to only one, which praises the President and calls for a negotiated peace.

The first round was lost to leading Doves such as Sen. Gaylord Nelson, the convention's keynote speaker Friday night, and Rep. Robert Kastenmaier.

Considered Hawk Victory

The passage by the committee of the Hawkish resolution is considered a victory — at least in the first stages — for Sen. William Proxmire, who ironically introduced Nelson to the convention, and Milwaukee Congressmen Clement Zablocki and Henry Reuss.

However, Kastenmaier said he will introduce from the floor a resolution which "implores the president to seek an immediate negotiated settlement, facilitated by halting bombing of the North."

It does not praise Johnson. The resolution the committee has brought to the floor is a combination of three of the original proposals. It states because of the burden of the war on the people of Vietnam the cost in American life, resources and social efforts at home, the United States should "continue to pursue a policy seeking a negotiated political settlement and halt the inexorable threat of World War III."

Resolution Amended

The committee amended the resolution to strike the words "rather than a total military victory in Vietnam."

Added to the basic resolution was an amendment by Luke Zyb, home secretary for Sen. Proxmire, praising President Johnson for his "firm dedication to the cause of and search for peace; for his support of American troops on the ground and sea and in the air, and for his determination to resist Communist aggression against South Vietnam."

Although Zyb's original resolution strongly praising the President was not adopted, Zyb said Proxmire "will be very pleased with this one."

Kastenmaier was not pleased with the final wording. Earlier during the discussion he told the committee he favored a slightly compromising resolution, but said he could not support the final document after Zyb's amendment was added.

Supported by Congressmen

The final resolution by the committee was also supported by Milwaukee's two Democratic congressmen. Zablocki said "We (the Hawks) can live with it." Reuss said he thinks "a final resolution without the Zyb-Proxmire amendment would be better," but said he can also accept the resolution.

If the convention adopts the Hawkish resolution it will be a direct reversal of the party's stand taken at the 1966 convention.

The committee also passed resolutions praising Nelson for his conservation work and attack on high drug prices, another condemning the military junta which overthrew the government of Greece and a third calling for complete revision of the federal income tax procedures.

The convention was scheduled to consider this morning — with probably much debate — a resolution on the Middle East situation.

The committee tabled and thereby killed a resolution calling for supporters of Alabama Gov. George Wallace to have him run under a different party label "for the good of all citizens." The feeling of the committee was to deny Wallace any publicity by ignoring him.

The committee also tabled a resolution making abortion legal. The request to table the resolution came from John Dewane, Manitowoc.

Reformatory Inmate Gets 2-Year Term

Green Bay Man Admits Shiocton Burglaries

A 24-year-old state reformatory inmate was sentenced to another two-year term Friday afternoon after he pleaded guilty of four burglaries in Shiocton April 19.

Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered that Patrick J. Dorgan, Green Bay, serve the two-year sentence concurrent with a three-year reformatory term. Dorgan, father of three, was sentenced to the reformatory earlier this year on 11 counts of burglary in Brown County.

Dorgan was brought to Branch 2 court from the reformatory by Outagamie County authorities Friday. Judge Keller found the Green Bay man indigent, appointed attorney Hugh Nelson, and bound the case over to the felony branch of County Court where Dorgan entered the pleas.

Outagamie County sheriff's investigators charged him with early morning burglaries April 19 at Elmer Johnson's Hardware store, Bob and Cliff's Garage, John Gliniecki's Cigo Station, and Van Straten Oil Co. Dorgan took more than $700 in cash and merchandise in the four burglaries. Most of the stolen items have been recovered, investigators said.
